Legal Dispute Over Who Is Supervisor of Town Will Be Decided

Harry Hulsair, Democratic Nominee for Supervisor of Town of Kingston, Seeks to Unseat Robert F. Charlton, Republican, Elected by Majority of One Vote.

A quo warranto action brought by Harry Hulsair of the town of Kingston against Robert F. Charlton, supervisor of the town of Kingston, was taken up for trial Wednesday afternoon before Judge Bliss and a jury to determine the question of whether Mr. Charlton was legally elected to the office of supervisor on November 4, 1931. The action is brought in the name of the State of New York by Harry Hulsair, Democratic nominee, and the action is one in which Mr. Charlton will show by what right he now occupies the office.

In 1931 Harry Hulsair was nominated by the Democratic party as the candidate for supervisor. The Republicans nominated Robert F. Charlton, who was supervisor of the town. In the town of Kingston there are in normal times less than 150 votes, and elections are as a rule close, particularly in regard to certain town officers.

Declared Elected.

When the vote was counted last year the vote for supervisor stood Charlton 86 and Hulsair 65. Mr. Charlton was declared elected and after filing his bond took the oath of office and has since represented the town as its supervisor.

Hulsair immediately after election contested the election and an action was brought to inspect the ballots. Such an inspection was had at the office of the town clerk and then the present action was commenced by the attorney general on the theory that some of the votes cast were illegal votes. This matter will be determined by the jury in supreme court. The disputed ballots will be examined and the jury will be given an opportunity to see just what is in the ballot box.

At the opening of the case Robert G. Groves, who with Harry H. Flemming, appears for the defendant moved to dismiss the complaint on the grounds it failed to state facts sufficient to constitute a cause of action in that there was no allegation that the plaintiff Hulsair ever subscribed to the oath of office in the time prescribed by law or that he had filed a bond within the time prescribed and was therefore not qualified to take the office at this time. Judge Bliss denied the motion.

Burden of Proof

Then came a legal question as to who bore the burden of proof and should open and close the case. Judge Bliss decided the burden was on plaintiff and he should open and close the case.

Mr. Ewig who appears for relator opened the case. He stated that the 1931 election the tally showed Mr. Charlton had been elected by one vote but at inspection of ballots had later under a court order some of the votes counted for Charlton had been found to be illegal and after that inspection the attorney general of the state had brought this action to determine who had legally been elected. Mr. Ewig said that the question for the jury was to determine who had received a majority of the legal votes cast. He stated that some of the votes according to his belief had been illegal.

Robert G. Groves in opening stated that Mr. Charlton had been elected to the office by one vote and that after the vote had been tallied by the election board of the town it was found that Hulsair had polled 65 votes and Charlton 66. Later the town board meeting as a town board of canvassers had canvassed the vote and found Mr. Charlton elected. He had been certified to the town clerk as a truly elected supervisor and had taken the oath of office and posted the required bond and was serving his town as supervisor.

Malone a Witness.

The first witness sworn was Michael Malone, town clerk of the town of Kingston, who said he resided in Sawkill. He produced the election returns filed with him last November together with the town ballot box. It was conceded by counsel that Hulsair had been the Democratic nominee and Charlton the Republican nominee.

Mr. Malone produced the ballot clerk return, inspectors return and other election papers which he said had been filed with him on November 4, 1931, the day after election.

Mr. Malone said the town board met later as a town board of canvassers and canvassed the vote and issued a certificate of election showing Charlton had been elected to the office of supervisor. This town meeting was attended by Charlton as supervisor, Malone as town clerk and by the one Justice of the Peace. All three signed the certificate of election.

Mr. Groves stated that in the town of Kingston there was by special act but one justice as the town was a small one. Mr. Ewig stated that if there was such a special act it should be shown in proper form.

The offer of the certificate of election was objected to by plaintiff and was admitted by the court who stated that if it were not shown that the certificate was a legal one it would be stricken out.

Oath Book Offered.

The oath book of the town was offered showing that Robert F. Charlton had taken the oath of office before the town clerk on November 6, 1931, and that a bond had been

Seven Cases in Police Court

This morning the police arrested Dennis Mulvihill of New York city on a charge of public intoxication. Dennis when arraigned in police court said he was not guilty of the charge, but his actions were such that Judge Culloton decided differently and sentenced Dennis to 60 days in jail.

James Morris of Newark, N. J., arrested for public intoxication on Fair street, was sentenced to five days in jail. The same sentence was imposed on Thomas Matthews of Troy, N. Y., who was picked up on Greenkill avenue on Wednesday. Thomas had four cans of "canned heat" which he was using for drinking purposes.

Frank Smith, a young man who said he resided at 184 Foxhall avenue, was sentenced to five days in jail on a charge of public intoxication.

Milton Bahl of Spring street, arrested on a charge of driving past a stop sign, paid a fine of $2.

Harry Hutton of 5 West Union street, arrested on a warrant sworn out by Clayton Ticefelt charging Hutton with assault in the third degree was discharged after a hearing today.

Harry Storms of 32 Prospect street, arrested on a charge of abandoning his wife and baby, had his hearing adjourned to Saturday.

Governor Roosevelt States Bonus Stand

Aboard Roosevelt Special, enroute to Indianapolis, Oct. 20 (AP).—For the first time in the campaign, a declaration on the bonus lay behind Governor Roosevelt today as the Democratic presidential nominee sped westward from Pittsburgh toward the hotly disputed territory of Indiana.

The governor, with vigorous gestures, shouted in the microphones at crowed Forbes Field last night, that he does "not now see how" a nation with a heavy deficit can consider immediate bonus payment until its budget is balanced.

In this first big speech of his western and southern tour, Governor Roosevelt also envisioned modification of the Volstead Act, in line with the Democratic platform pledge, to supply "several hundred millions of dollars a year toward the balancing of the budget."

With his face toward Indianapolis today, Governor Roosevelt had behind him a one day automobile swing through the Ohio valley corner of three states—Pennsylvania, West Virginia and Ohio—culminating in the evening in what Democratic County Chairman David L. Lawrence described as "the greatest political gathering in Pennsylvania's history."

Boni De Castellane Dead in Paris, Aged 64

Paris, Oct. 20 (AP).—Marquis Boni De Castellane, for many years "Arbiter of Elegance," Bon Vivant and Beau Brummel of the Paris boulevards, died today, aged 64. Death came after a week's serious illness due to a paralytic stroke complicated by bronchitis.

He was formerly the husband of Anna Gould, American heiress and daughter of the late Jay Gould. His marriage to the rail king's daughter made it possible for him to realize his dream of supremacy in the world he loved—a world of thoroughbred horses, marble palaces, the opera, society and the company of brilliant women.

The marquis died peacefully at 4:50 a. m., without recovering consciousness from a coma into which he lapsed at 6 o'clock last night. A priest was called at midnight, when the end seemed near, and administered the last rites of the church.

His mother, two brothers, and one of his sons left the bedside at 2 a. m., but his other two sons remained with him to the end. These were Count Boniface, who succeeds to the title of his father, and George.

Symphony Society Directors' Meeting

There will be a very important meeting of the Directors of the Kingston Symphony Society on Friday evening of this week at 7:30 o'clock at the office of Arthur C. Connelly on Wall street. Mr. Connelly is the chairman of the committee on patrons. Many letters were sent out by the committee soliciting patrons for the coming two Symphony Orchestra concerts. While there has been an encouraging reply, many others are delaying their request for patron tickets, not realizing the importance of subscribing now in order that the society may have a definite idea of just how enthusiastically and practically the people of Kingston will support the symphony concerts this year. If those intending and wishing to become patrons would do so before the meeting on Friday evening it would be highly appreciated by the committee. Checks for the tickets should be sent to A. C. Connelly, Kingston Symphony Society, 293 Wall street, Kingston.

Grange Card Party.

The Lake Katrine Grange will hold the weekly card party at Grange Hall, Friday, October 21. Play will start at 8 o'clock.

County of Ulster Gets $39,658.83 Of Motor Fuel Tax

Commissioner Thomas H. Lynch of the state taxation and finance department today announced the amounts allotted to the various counties from the money collected on motor fuel taxes, specifying that Ulster county with a mileage of 1,626 is to receive $39,658.83.

Counties surrounding Ulster were allotted portions as follows: Delaware with a mileage of 2,165—$52,805.26; Dutchess with a mileage of 1,549.09—$32,904.87; Greene with a mileage of 941.24—$22,957.24; Orange with a mileage of 1,319.16—$32,184.87; Sullivan with a mileage of 1,716.77—$41,872.47.

The 57 counties outside of greater New York city received a total of $1,748,510.77 for the October allotment.

In this latest distribution the city of New York received as its share $437,127.69, while the state of New York kept for its portion $4,638,585.27. The total quarterly apportionment was $6,824,223.73. The state aid among the fifty-seven counties outside the metropolis was based on a total mileage of 71,688 miles or at the rate of $24.39 a mile.

While this latest grant was larger than the $1,641,000 sent out in January, the $1,275,000 in April or the $1,387,000 in July of this year, it is the lowest October distribution made, with one exception, since the motor fuel tax law has been effective. In October, 1929, the counties received $1,570,000. The October, 1930, distribution was $1,902,000 and in October of 1931 it totaled $1,849,000.

Once again Steuben, St. Lawrence, Suffolk and Delaware, each having a mileage of over 2,000 miles of unimproved road, received the largest amount from this distribution. Hamilton, Schenectady and Rockland counties, each having an unimproved road mileage of less than 400 miles, received the smallest amounts.

JURY FAILED TO AGREE, RETIRE FOR MORE STUDY

Shortly before 5 o'clock Wednesday afternoon the jury in the negligence action brought by Emma Hodlin against Robert R. Rodie reported to Judge Bliss. The foreman stated that the jury had been unable to agree. Judge Bliss directed the jurors to again retire and try to come to an agreement and bring in a sealed verdict at the opening of court today. The jury had been out since noon.

The action involves the question as to whether the defendant was negligent and therefore responsible for the death of John A. Hodlin, a steeple-jack hired to paint a flag pole on the Rodie property. On August 6, 1930, while at work painting the pole it broke and Mr. Hodlin was fatally injured.

CHARGED HAD GUN BUT HAD NO PERMIT.

Charles Luzzi, 49, of East Kingston, was committed to the Ulster county jail Wednesday by Justice Walter Webber to await the action of the grand jury. It is alleged that Luzzi "pulled a gun" on Arthur Pole, East Kingston negro, and then turned the latter over to a constable on a charge of stealing two heads of cabbage from his garden. Pole told Deputy Sheriff Tiano of the occurrence and the latter, after making an investigation and finding it is stated, that Luzzi had no permit for a gun, arrested Luzzi and took him before Justice Webber.

Women Aiding In Boy Scout Drive

Drive Far Short of Amount Sought But Many Districts and Captains Have Yet to Make Reports.

A feature of the Boy Scout finance campaign this year is the interest and cooperation being given by the women of the community in the work of raising funds for the coming year. The ladies are supervising the furnishing and serving of the dinners which are part of the meetings of the workers each evening, the meetings being held in the various church halls.

Monday evening the workers met at the Clinton Avenue Church, Tuesday evening at the First Dutch Church and on Wednesday evening the dinner and meeting was held in St. Mary's Hall at Broadway and McEntee streets, the fine turkey dinner being served by Mrs. John Herrick and her committee of members of St. Mary's Church.

Tonight the meeting will be in St. John's Church hall on Albany avenue. A feature of the meeting tonight will be selections by the string quartet of Troop 6 of the Albany Avenue Baptist Church, one of the outstanding troops of the city. In addition to reports from the various city teams tonight it is expected that workers from the communities outside the city included in the Kingston district will be present and report the progress they have made.

Following the dinner Wednesday night C. Ray Everett, chairman for the district, took charge of the proceedings. He introduced as the speaker of the evening the Rev. James R. More, the popular assistant rector of St. Mary's Church, who gave a fine talk, stressing the fact that the men before him could be engaged in no more important or greater work than that of planning for the welfare of the boys of the community, the men of tomorrow. He gave an illustration showing the necessity of unity and cooperation if the work were to be brought to a successful termination and especially urged the men to put enthusiasm into their labor.

There was a period of singing, led by Scout Executive Wright, with Daniel Bittner at the piano, after which reports from workers were received. Total subscriptions reported for the day were $660.50, which with the amount reported Tuesday evening made a grand total from city workers, for the two days of $1,496.25. Several of the team captains have made no report as yet. The amounts reported by the various team captains in the city, up to Wednesday night are:

Joseph Morgan	$ 133.25
Floyd Spencer	67.25
L. T. Schoonmaker	10.00
Joe Len	86.50
Elliott Davis	54.00
William S. Jackson	21.25
Sam Messinger	39.00
H. S. Shultis	53.00
Edward Hillis	10.00
Ben Suskind	26.00
Francis Boss	85.00
Floyd Powell	8.00
Executive Committee	900.00
Total	$1,496.25

It was noted that the above amount was secured from a canvass of but 346 out of a total of 1,462 prospect cards and the workers were told that this showed that the success of the campaign depended upon their seeing every prospect in their territory.

The meeting closed with a showing of moving pictures taken at the Boy Scout camp near Cairo last summer.

Up to Wednesday night reports had been received from but seven out of 34 places in the Ulster-Greene Council where campaigns are being conducted and total receipts for all were $2,413.25. The seven reporting were:

Kingston City	$1,496.25
Catskill	532.00
Leeds	125.00
Cairo	160.00
Freehold	20.00
Maplecrest	5.00
Tannersville	75.00

American Legion County Meeting Held at Wallkill

The county meeting of the American Legion held Wednesday night in the church hall in Wallkill was largely attended. Notwithstanding the bad weather, 225 were in attendance, 44 of whom were Orange county Legionnaires. County Commander Robert Browning of West Hurley conducted the meeting. Past State Commander Brundage of Newburgh, Vice Chairman T. L. Millspaugh of the Ninth Judicial District and County Commander Bernie Herman of Orange county were present.

Commander Browning reported that he had information from state headquarters to the effect that a plan has been devised for the reimbursement to the veterans at Castle Point Hospital of over $5,000 which was stolen from the canteen clerk who was returning from the bank in Beacon after cashing compensation checks for the month of the veterans at the hospital. A collection from Ulster county posts had been ordered at the September meeting of the Legion.

Attention was directed to the fact that the new state road between Kingston and New Paltz was ready for construction, contracts having been awarded. Specifications call for a 30-hour week at 40 cents per hour and world war veterans having dependents are to have preference as workers. Applications should be made through the town clerk or supervisor, or, in the case of Kingston, at the local work relief bureau.

The question of purchasing an additional quartz-mercury health lamp for the home treatment of various tubercular veterans was discussed and it was decided to ask Kingston Post to temporarily finance the purchase of an additional machine since the veterans to use them live in Kingston and since Kingston Post has a substantial welfare fund.

District Conference

District Chairman Jack Lowther of Saugerties invited all Legionnaires to attend the Third District conference to be held in Kingston Sunday, October 20, at 3 p. m. The next county meeting will be held in Ellenville on Wednesday, November 16.

A feature of the meeting was the presentation, in an eloquent little speech, of an American Legion banner to Cornelius Rose Post of Wallkill by the president of the Wallkill Auxiliary unit. Commander Crane of Wallkill Post, in accepting the beautiful and appropriate gift, pledged the fullest support of the Post to the Auxiliary.

Commanders Report.

Each Post commander in the county made a report of the activities and accomplishments of his Post since the last meeting and sketched to the meeting what his Post was planning to do during the coming months. County Commander Herman of Orange, told about the Armistice Day services at the Newburgh High School on Sunday evening, November 6, which is an annual event there. All the Protestant, Catholic and Jewish clergymen of the city take part in the program and it does much to bring a better understanding among the various denominations and helps eliminate religious intolerance, he said.

At the conclusion of the meeting, an entertaining musical program was given. The speaker of the evening was Dr. Palmer, warden of the Wallkill prison now under construction. Dr. Palmer proved to be the possessor of a keen mind, a pleasing and interesting delivery and an engaging personality. He said that he had been a penologist all his life and was glad to come to Wallkill to undertake an experiment in the treatment of criminals. He said the state had built a maximum security prison at Attica recently at a cost of $6,000 per cell. "It was finely equipped, and tool steel was used extensively to make it very safe. The Wallkill prison is a medium security prison and is being built at a cost of $2,000 per cell, the total cost to be $1,500,000 when completed. He said the inmates were now quartered in several barns and that when it rained, the roof leaked and the men had to get up to shift their cots. Yet he had heard people say that the prisoners were pampered. He said they were well fed because they had to put in eight hours of good, hard work, and that it cost about 32 cents per day per prisoner for food. Dr. Palmer said that some authorities considered that if a prisoner was worked from eight to 12 hours per day, and given three meals, they were well taken care of. It was his opinion, however, that prisoners should be made to do a good day's work for eight hours, should have eight hours sleep and should be given eight hours of recreation.

He found that the prisoners he had at Wallkill were, when they arrived there, totally unable to take part in group activities or group sports. They came from either very congested areas, where they had no opportunity to learn to play with others, or from isolated rural sections where they never learned to take part in sports or other recreation with their fellows. He believed that when a man learned to get along well with his neighbors, when he learned the importance of team-play, and became a good loser, he would become a good citizen.

Dr. Palmer said that the men at his prison were going to be taught the lessons of recreational advantages, that they were not going to be engaged at work for 12 hours and shirking over half the time, but were going to really work hard for eight hours, so that when they went back

Hoover Preparing For Westward Trip

Washington, Oct. 20 (AP).—President Hoover is working in preparation for a swift but strenuous westward trip this week-end for an all major speech in his personal campaign for reelection.

Thirteen times at his special train speeds Saturday through West Virginia and Ohio, Mr. Hoover will make his rear platform appearances. Then he will climax his late October drive with a campaign speech at Detroit, America's automobile center.

Most of the President's time today was occupied in drafting the Detroit speech.

Also receiving attention were subjects that may be discussed briefly before West Virginia and Ohio audiences.

A short speech probably will be delivered in Charleston, West Virginia during a half hour pause there early Saturday after a night's run from the capital. This is the longest scheduled stop of the train.

Following in order are twelve rear platform appearances in Huntington and Kenova, West Virginia; and Ironton, Portsmouth, Waverley, Chillicothe, Circleville, Columbus, Delaware, Marion, Fostoria, and Toledo all in Ohio.

This itinerary will place the president in Detroit just about in time for his speech, scheduled for 8:30 p. m. Its subject has not been announced.

Henry Ford Tells Why He Is for Hoover

Detroit, Oct. 20 (AP).—Disavowing any interest in party politics, Henry Ford today was enlisted as a Hoover campaigner.

In a radio address last night—his first of that nature—the automobile manufacturer said: "I support the best man for the job. If Herbert Hoover were a Democrat, with his record during the last four years, I should have to support him."

Much of his address was devoted to the need of "a money system managed as our weather bureau is, for the protection of the people's business," and he said he would "like to see it done by a man of practical experience like Mr. Hoover."

Congress, he said, "farmed out the national money system to private hands" and "should take back full control of money and give the United States a public service money system as opposed to a private profit money system."

Mr. Ford said President Hoover "is carrying a greater burden than Abraham Lincoln carried—and he is carrying it in a way that places him beside Lincoln in sacrificial service."

Silver Jubilee Of Mt. St. Alphonsus Celebrated Today

Twenty-Fifth Anniversary of Redemptorist Monastery Celebrated at Esopus—Bishop Dunn Celebrates Solemn Pontifical Mass.

This morning the beautiful chapel of the monastery of Mount St. Alphonsus at Esopus was the scene of an impressive religious service commemorating the twenty-fifth anniversary of the establishment of the [illegible]. The [illegible] of Bishop of the Diocese of Albany, Pontifical Mass, celebrated by the Most Rev. John J. Dunn, D. D. Auxiliary Bishop of New York, assisted by the [illegible] and students of the monastery. An eloquent sermon appropriate to the occasion was delivered by the Rev. Andrew B. Kuhn, C. SS. R., of Brooklyn, Provincial Superior of the Eastern Province of the American Redemptorists. The Rev. William Greene, C. SS. R. officiated as master of ceremonies, and the musical portions of the service were rendered by a choir of 40 students under the direction of the Rev. Edward Killion, C. SS. R.

At the dinner which followed the function a number of the diocesan clergy were the guests of the Redemptorists. Among those present was the Very Rev. John Stanley, pastor of St. Mary's Church, and Dean of Ulster and Sullivan counties.

Wednesday evening Bulwer-Lytton's drama "Richelieu" was presented by the students in the spacious auditorium. The performance was directed by the Rev. Edward Molly, C. SS. R., who had adapted the play to an entire male cast. The title role was played by the Rev. John Schultz, C. SS. R.

The beginnings of Mount St. Alphonsus date from 1904, when the Robert Livingston Pell estate was acquired by the Congregation of the Most Holy Redeemer, a Catholic religious order, usually designated as the Redemptorist Fathers. The present building was begun in 1905, and was ready for occupancy in the fall of 1907. On October 22 of that year the Redemptorist clerical students of the Eastern province, 56 in number, arrived at Esopus from Ilchester, Maryland, where the house of ecclesiastical studies had been located since 1877. The formal opening of the new monastery took place on October 23, 1907.

The course of studies at Mount St. Alphonsus constitutes the final stage of the preparation for the priesthood in the Redemptorist Congregation. The training of the young men is begun at St. Mary's College, North East, Pennsylvania, where six years are devoted to high school and junior college studies. Then a year of noviciate is passed at Ilchester, Maryland, in prayer and in the study of asceticism. At the end of this period those who wish to embrace the monastic life and have been approved by the superiors bind themselves by the vows of poverty, chastity and obedience for three years. They then begin the six-years' course of study at Esopus. After the third year those who have given convincing proof of their spiritual and intellectual competency for the priesthood and are desirous of accepting the religious life permanently renew their vows, this time for life. At the conclusion of the fifth year the young religious are ordained to the priesthood, but during their final year they attend classes like the other students, taking no part in the work of the active ministry, except that they celebrate Mass every morning in the monastery chapel.

During the past quarter of a century 464 Redemptorists have been elevated to the priesthood in the chapel of Mount St. Alphonsus. Since 1919 when Cardinal Hayes became Archbishop of New York, he has himself conferred the sacred order each year, except when some urgent duty made his presence impossible. The alumni of Mount St. Alphonsus are now engaged in the work of the ministry over a wide extent of territory, including the Eastern states, Canada, Puerto Rico, the Virgin Islands and Brazil. One alumnus, the Most Rev. Aloysius Willinger, C. SS. R., D. D., is Bishop of Ponce, Puerto Rico; and a former professor of the institution, the Most Rev. Gerald Murray, C. SS. R., D. D., is Bishop of Victoria, British Columbia.

At present there are 125 clerical students at the monastery, and a corps of 17 professors. Moreover, four priests engaged in other work than the training of the students, and nine lay brothers, are attached to the community. The present Rector is the Very Rev. Thomas Sanderson, C. SS. R., who taught philosophy and moral theology eleven years before his appointment as head of the monastery in 1930.

In addition to fulfilling their professorial charge, the members of the faculty render assistance to the neighboring clergy on Sundays and on extraordinary occasions, such as the Lenten season. Some of the professors discuss Catholic topics over the radio and are contributors to theological periodicals.

The keynote of the celebration was a deep sense of gratitude to the Almighty for His loving and fostering care over Mount St. Alphonsus during the past 25 years, and a confiding hope that He will continue to pour out His blessings on an institution that has contributed so signally to the development of spiritual and intellectual ideals.

SIXTY DISASTERS IN 1932 ADD TO NATION'S DISTRESS

Red Cross Spends $2,760,000 To Help Victims of Catastrophes.

In a year of great misfortune caused by economic depression, in which the American Red Cross assumed heavy burdens of relief for the unemployed, the organization also responded to emergency needs in 60 disasters in the United States and its insular possessions.

During the twelve months ending June 30, 1932, the Red Cross gave aid to 75,000 families totalling 320,000 individuals, with expenditures of $2,760,706. These people were in distress because of drought, flood, forest fire, tornado, snowstorm, mine explosion, or other similar great disaster.

Prolonged drought caused the Red Cross to go with help to 90,000 families in the northwest. Here in 144 counties in North and South Dakota, Montana, Nebraska, Washington and Iowa the Red Cross spent $1,500,000 from its own treasury to feed and protect people through the winter and spring.

Other grave disasters were floods in southeastern states, where the organization spent $192,000 from its treasury and $60,000 local contributions to help 13,000 persons.

More than 50,000 people were homeless from floods in tributaries of the Mississippi river and again the Red Cross faced a long relief task, aiding these people. The national organization gave $103,000 and local contributions were $10,000.

The Red Cross always maintains a state of readiness to meet these sudden emergencies, and funds and other essentials to this work are supplied, in part, by the annual roll call, held each year from Armistice Day to Thanksgiving Day. Every citizen can support this worthy activity through joining as a member in the local Red Cross chapter.

Buddha's Teachings

Buddha, who died 543 B. C., was the first religious leader to preach the brotherhood of man, enjoining love and charity for all.

Flashes of Life Sketched in Brief

By the Associated Press.

Now Robert is Sad.

Chicago—A particular chap is Robert Campbell. A federal judge gave him nine months in the Cook county jail for selling narcotics.

"Couldn't you send me to Leavenworth prison instead?" he asked.

The judge accommodated him. But made it two years.

A Beastly Holdup.

Nairobi, Africa—Here's something new in holdups. Sir Joseph Byrne reports that when motoring near here his car ran over a lioness' paw. That so enraged her relatives that three of them stood snarling and roaring in the road, blocking the car for an hour before slinking away.

Oh, Hum.

Philadelphia—No dashing bandit, he slouched dismally into Benjamin Carson's drug store, feebly directed the druggist to "put 'em up," hesitatingly started taking $32 from the cash register, the while he morosely muttered: "Might as well blow my brains out as do this." Sadly he took it—the money, not his life.

Coed Becomes Undersheriff.

Cordell, Okla.—A freshman co-ed quit the University of Oklahoma today to become undersheriff of Washita county.

Miss Wilma Hines succeeded her father, D. C. Hines, who died last Thursday. Sheriff Philo Lambert made the appointment.

Get Out Your Flannels.

Fort Worth, Tex.—It won't be long now. Take the word of zoo attendants. Last week the little alligator ate just one meal and the big alligator dug a home in the sand. Last night neither alligator would eat, and both looked bored with life. Sure sign, say attendants. Winter's just ahead.

Rah! Rah! Yum! Yum!

Chapel Hill, N. C.—Some colleges may have rooting presidents at football games but they'll go a long way if they better Dr. Frank Graham, president of the University of North Carolina.

Dr. Graham wouldn't miss a game if he could help it and the freshman opening game was no exception. He couldn't leave his office until game time so Mrs. Graham brought the family lunch to the stadium.

The president mixed sandwiches with his enjoyment of the game.

"You're Telling Us!"

Los Angeles—"Calling car No. 16, calling car No. 16," droned a police radio. "There's a bad wreck at First and Virgil streets. Hurry over there."

"And he's telling us," groaned officers Bennett and Venohr who were in the wreck, police car No. 16 having overturned as they pursued a woman motorist who wasn't obeying traffic regulations.

Santa in Baltimore.

Baltimore—Twenty-five thousand pairs of shoes and stockings hafe been ordered by Raymond A. Stankey, Baltimore banker, for distribution among the city's poor this winter. When the first 6,000 shoes arrived, he asked the police to inspect them, and when they did not come up to specifications, he sent them back to the manufacturers. Last winter Stankey distributed 14,000 pairs of shoes and thousands of baskets of food among the poor.

Scots in History

The name of Scot originated like a great number of things (as we learn more and more each year) in Ireland, says Henry Harris, writing in the Boston Herald. The original Scots emigrated to Scotland toward the end of the Roman era, joined with the other Celts and Saxons of the country, and gave their name to the kingdom.

Bank Appeals Decision In Murphy Case

New York, Oct. 19.—(Special)—An appeal from a decision of Judge Frank J. Coleman in federal court here on October 4, in which he directed a judgment of $8,815 against the Rondout National Bank, Kingston, and in favor of James E. Bennet, Jr., acting as trustee in bankruptcy of Daniel J. Murphy, will be taken to the circuit court of appeals here. An order allowing the appeal was signed today by Judge John M. Woolsey.

Judge Coleman in his decision said that 240 shares of United States Steel Corp., transferred in 1925 by Daniel Murphy to his then infant son, Donald J. Murphy, was made to defraud creditors. No date has yet been set for the hearing on appeal.

THE FALL OF TICONDEROGA
"Nature in the Raw"—as portrayed by F. C. Yohn . . . inspired by that horror-filled dawn when the bloodthirsty savages fell on Ethan Allen's gallant "Green Mountain Boys" of Fort Ticonderoga fame. "Nature in the Raw is Seldom Mild"—and raw tobaccos have no place in cigarettes.

No raw tobaccos in Luckies —that's why they're so mild

WE buy the finest, the very finest tobaccos in all the world—but that does not explain why folks everywhere regard Lucky Strike as the mildest cigarette. The fact is, we never overlook the truth that "Nature in the Raw is Seldom Mild"—so these fine tobaccos, after proper aging and mellowing, are then given the benefit of that Lucky Strike purifying process, described by the words—"It's toasted". That's why folks in every city, town and hamlet say that Luckies are such mild cigarettes.

Financial and Commercial

New York, Oct. 20 (AP).—Rails, provided with fresh steam by encouraging carloadings reports, were unable to pull the Stock Market out of its lethargy today.

The leaders slid off 1 to more than 3 points during the first hour, regained much of the loss during the temporary upturn in the rails, but receded in the early afternoon, with tobaccos again under considerable pressure.

Advances of 1 to 1¾ points in Union Pacific, Santa Fe, Southern Pacific and New Haven were reduced. American telephone, after recovering a loss of 2 points registered in the first hour, again slid back to show a loss of a point. General Motors encountered considerable pressure, losing about a point. Case slid back a couple of points, and U. S. Steel was off more than a point. American Tobacco "B" and Liggett and Myers "B" each slid down about 3 points.

Brokerage quarters were busy with gossip over U. S. Steel's preferred dividends action, due next week, and were inclined to take a moderately optimistic attitude, on the theory that the steel outlook had been enhanced by the better feeling among railroad executives. The carriers are one of the chief consumers of steel. Corporate earnings statements coming to hand for the first nine months again attracted attention. A number of food companies showed net for the period only slightly under the like period of last year. Two Canadian gold mines, McIntyre Porcupine and Dome, showed gains over a year ago.

There were further reports of foreign buying in this market. On the whole, however, the business was said to be of small proportions, with buying somewhat in excess of selling. Some purchases of railroad securities were reported for Swiss account.

Quotations given by Parker, McElroy & Co., members, N. Y. Stock Exchange, 120 Broadway, New York City; branch office, Stuyvesant Hotel.

Lecture on Hosiery At Wonderly Store

Stylist Will Illustrate Talks With Aid of Movie Camera—Wonderly Co. To Celebrate 13th Anniversary.

A stylist from the No Mend Hosiery Co. will be at the Wonderly store, Wall street, Friday and will give several lectures on styles in dress and the latest in hosiery. She will illustrate her talks with the aid of a movie camera. The public generally is invited to visit the store and hear these talks, a special invitation being given to high school students to attend the lecture at 4 p. m.

Much interest is being shown in the film being displayed in the Wonderly Co. window this week, which gives in detail the entire process of making silk stockings, from the silk worm to the finished product, showing the worms feeding, the spinning of the cocoon, the spinning and weaving of the silk, etc.

Next week the Wonderly Co. will celebrate the 13th anniversary of the business under the present name. C. E. Wonderly having purchased the business from the G. A. Hart interests 13 years ago. Established over 60 years ago, the firm name being Benson, Hart & Hubbard, the store gained an enviable reputation for reliability and dependability of merchandise handled. In the course of years there were several changes in the firm title, Benson & Hart succeeding the original firm, then came Hart & Bishop and later G. A. Hart.

The Wonderly Co. will have an announcement of interest to its patrons and the public generally at the beginning of the anniversary week.

Men Shot Up The Widow Jones Place

Early this morning three strange men, who vainly sought admittance to the "Widow Jones's" place on the West Hurley road, shot up the place, but no one was injured in the shooting affray. Word of the shooting was telephoned to the State Troopers, but the three men made good their escape. According to the message received by the authorities the three men became angry when they knocked for admission to the place and received no answer to their knocks. Then it was that they pulled revolvers and started shooting.

DINNER TO BE HELD TO SEND 4-H GIRL TO CHICAGO.

A baked Virginia ham dinner will be served to all who wish to attend, at the Lake Katrine Grange Hall, Friday, October 21. Service will begin at 5:30 and continue until all are served. The 4-H Club members will have an exhibit of their work on the second floor of the Grange Hall. Salmon will be served to those who do not care for ham, and homemade apple pie is on the menu for dessert.

This 4-H dinner is being held to raise funds to send New York's 4-H girl health champion, Sarah Boice, to the national contest which will be held in conjunction with the National 4-H Club Congress, November 25 to December 3, at Chicago. Miss Boice won the state contest with a score of 98.1 per cent and it is expected that she will stand high in the national contest.

During the three years of 4-H Club work, Miss Boice has carefully followed the approved foods and health habits. She drinks milk regularly and does not care for coffee or tea. She likes all of the fruits and vegetables, even including spinach. Like all boys and girls she enjoys candy but does not indulge too frequently and then after meals. She eats fresh fruit in season between meals.

She sleeps with open windows for nine hours each night and gets exercise walking to and from the bus that takes her to Kingston High School. Miss Boice is quite an athlete as she enjoys swimming, skating, rowing, riding horseback and hiking. She is the oldest of a family of six children and besides carrying out her 4-H homemaking work in sewing and cooking, helps her mother with household duties.

Mrs. Hugh Farguson, local leader of the Puritan Club of Lake Katrine, of which Miss Boice is a member, is the general chairman of the committee in charge of the dinner. The Lake Katrine Grange and 4-H Clubs in neighboring communities are assisting the 4-H Clubs of Lake Katrine in this undertaking.

Besides ham and apple pie, the menu includes candied sweet potatoes, carrots, egg and cottage cheese salad and coffee and milk.

KINGSTON, N. Y., OCT. 20, 1932.

THE COUNTY TICKET.

The men who are the candidates for office this fall on the Republican ticket have been wisely chosen for the offices they aspire to fill. The voters of Ulster county will make no mistake in casting their votes for them.

In naming J. Edward Conway of Kingston for member of assembly, the Republican party has selected a young man who is making a name for himself in the legal profession, and who is proving that he is capable of ably representing Ulster county in the state legislature.

Senator Arthur H. Wicks, who is seeking re-election, should be returned to office this fall by an even larger majority than he has received in the past. Senator Wicks's record as a member of the state senate has proven him an able man who has always had the best interests of his district at heart.

John H. Saxe, who has been nominated for the office of sheriff, is widely known throughout the county as a man who has proven in the past that he is efficient. He is a man of integrity and honesty.

The Democratic party this fall is again chanting that old refrain "There should be a change." Kingston voters a year ago were lulled by the music of that refrain, but since then they have had a sad awakening. When you touch a man's pocketbook you touch one of his most sensitive points. Ulster county has seen what the change did for Kingston. It hardly seems possible that voters will again be lulled by the strains of the Democratic war song.

NOT A TIME TO SWAP.

The thinking people of the United States will vote this fall to retain President Hoover in office for another four years. In the Democratic nominee they have a man who by his public utterances during the present campaign has proven that he is willing to promise relief on any question, but so far has failed to offer any solution of the problems confronting the country that is slowly returning to normalcy under the leadership of President Hoover.

Governor Roosevelt is uttering a number of fine, high sounding phrases, which when summed up mean absolutely nothing. His record as governor of the Empire State is not exactly one to be proud of. Under his leadership state taxes have increased steadily as taxpayers of Ulster county know without being told. If he could not reduce state expenditures, how can any thinking voter expect him to reduce those of the federal government.

On the one hand the voters have a man who as governor of the state has failed to put into practice any of the theories he is now voicing, while on the other hand the United States during the past few years when the country faced the greatest depression in its history, has been fortunate in having at the head of the government a man who has proven himself cool, level-headed and resourceful. Under his leadership the country is slowly but surely climbing out of the slough of the depression. As President Lincoln once said, it is not wise to swap horses while crossing a stream.

AUTO TAXES

A representative of the American Automobile Association suggests that the automobile is capable of leading the way out of the depression again, and will do so if the automobilist is not taxed to death. The last session of Congress, he says, hit the motor car harder than any other commodity, putting seven different taxes on it. He wants a few of the tax levies repealed.

It was natural to put such burdens on the motorist and the motor industry. People wouldn't walk." The auto was king. Billions were poured into it during the times which, compared with the present, are looked upon as abounding in prosperity. It was easy, especially, to tax gasoline, because in the big joy-ride few counted the cost.

But there is a limit to everything and a law of diminishing returns for taxes as well as lands. With higher taxes, lower incomes and fewer jobs, people WILL walk. Or worse still, they will stay at home. There will be perhaps 10,000,000 cars standing idle in American garages this winter. It is a situation for Congress and state legislatures to do some serious thinking about.

There are many ways to honor the memory of George Washington in this bicentennial year. A. D. A. R. chapter which chose to do it with Douglas fir trees has shown good sense and civic spirit which would probably please Washington more than any historical pageant. The group decided first to give their city 100 evergreens. Then they studied the city's arboreal needs. A drive through the town's most important park was found to have numerous treeless sections, so arrangements were made to have a "mile of trees" set out where needed along that road. When the work is done there will be a public ceremony, with the local Daughters of the American Revolution presenting their gift, the governor of the state making an address, and representatives of the bicentennial committee speaking. There will be plenty of patriotic utterances and doubtless some speechifying. There will also be trees. Long after the wordy praise of the First President is forgotten, the Douglas firs will be giving beauty and fragrance to that park, sheltering birds and squirrels, and delighting children. As between trees and bronze tablets for remembrance, we choose trees.

NOISE AND HEALTH

Research men tell us that the ear is a very delicate instrument. It was meant that it should hear the slightest sounds so that man could protect himself in emergencies.

As man is now able to take care of himself against animals, there is not perhaps the same need for acute or great delicacy of hearing, yet the ear drum is the same in structure as it has been for many centuries.

Today however the ear drum is forced to hear the loud noises which it was not intended to hear or withstand and these loud noises are actually causing a thickening of the ear drum. The thickening of this delicate membrane interferes with the movement of the three little bones that carry the sound impulse to the brain. In fact the joints between these little bones become like solid bone. The nerve that carries the sound to the brain becomes gradually exhausted thus tending to cause deafness.

Noise interferes with mental work by keeping the individual's attention on the noise itself instead of on the work he is trying to do. As mentioned before the loud noises in an office has lowered the efficiency of office workers by as much as 40 per cent.

Dr. D. Fraser, Australia, in discussing the subject of the relation of noise in its effect upon the nervous system has shown that the noises of a city produce a wearing effect upon the nerves.

While civilized man has grown used to noises and can shut them out of his home to a considerable extent, nevertheless noise is what makes any animal become alert or attentive, and with that attentiveness is fear. Man may not fear noises in a sense, but when noises strike his ear his whole being—body and brain—becomes or is kept alert. And you know from experience that when your brain and body are kept tensed, fatigue—tiredness—comes on very quickly.

In other words, noise is harmful to the hearing, harmful to the brain itself, lowers ability to do work, and puts a real strain on the whole body that it was never meant to carry.

As mentioned before, noise has passed being a nuisance; it is a real menace to health.

A PATH TO PARADISE

by Cosgrave DAWSON

SYNOPSIS: Clive drives wildly through the night to Santa, relates his situation. He loves Santa, daughter of his guardian, Eric Dane, whom his mother wished on favor of the handsome man who became his father. Partly through jealousy of Clive, greater mother has kept Santa in Europe where she has become an irresponsible expert at leading men on to make fools of themselves. Now she has telegraphed Clive on vacation at Cape Cod, to go to her at once. At last she is ready to settle down to marriage with him. Clive feels sure.

Chapter 6

ENTER DICKY DAK

SPICK and span after a bath at his club and a telephone call to Santa, Clive set out on the last lap of his long drive from Cape Cod to the Dawn country place in New Jersey.

The Dawn butler had told him Santa was out, and he had suspected a white lie. This time, however, he thought he divined her motive. Preliminary speech would spoil the high ecstasy of their impending drama. Like all lovers, Clive was hastening to an ambush.

After an hour's drive through lovely summer country defaced by advertisements and hot-dog stands, he came to a village that was truly rural. At its far end in a green oasis of shaven lawns grew up a cool white house, immaculate as a yacht at anchor, partly screened from public gaze by flowering shrubs and rose-covered pergolas. Turning in at the next drive, he came to a halt with a flourish beneath the smiling windows. Springing out, he tooted his horn accidentally.

Before he could knock a uniformed maid had opened. She appeared to take his arrival casually. During her service with the Dawns she had seen so many of these gay young Giant-Killers. The ogre's treasure was still intact—and the spry young Jacks, where were they?

Miss Santa was on the courts playing tennis. With a grateful grin he signified that he would go to her.

At this point his romantic imaginings received a box on the ears: her voice floated to him through the brooding stillness, addressing someone as "Dicky, darling." The box on the ears was quickly followed by a blow between the eyes: the vision of her insolently cool young figure as she kept a perspiring opponent on the run by her carefully placed shots.

"But, Dicky, darling, you ought to have got that one; I made it specially easy for you."

Pushing open the door in the wire behind her, Clive entered. This Dicky person was a new one—a striking contrast to the college-boys who had constituted her previous captures. He was aristocratic—self-assured. He bore a faint resemblance to Albert, King of the Belgians—blond, well set up, blue-eyed, fresh-complexioned, 30-odd. He was obviously a good sport, for he was making a jest of his own clumsiness.

"You must come riding with me. I'm a wizard on horseback."

"So much to learn about each other," she chaffed him.

Clive concealed his chagrin by scouting Santa's balls. Meanwhile she lapsed into French, which the man across the net spoke with equal fluency. As far as Clive was concerned, most of what they said was lost.

Suddenly, with premeditated abruptness she flung down her racket.

"Gather up the balls, Dicky, and take them to the house. Clive and I'll be with you in a second."

She led the way to a little wood where an arbor stood beside the swimming-pool. The omen was propitious.

"Get rid of him," Clive whispered.

"Rid of whom?"

"The foreigner."

"He's an awful dear and as much American as you are."

Having seated herself in the arbor, she smiled angelically.

"Nice old thing."

She shot him a melting glance.

This time he described his symptoms more eloquently, rising to poetic heights. This sacred day. The arbor sacred. The swimming-pool sacred. The wood a shrine. And to meet thus after all their wanderings. (She being eighteen: he four years her senior!) The solemnity of the moment.

"And I can't live without you."

"But, darling," she protested, stroking his hand. "Except for our last parting you've always been most comfortable."

Their fingers intertwined. Hers twitched and fluttered. Unperspired and smiling, she came to him without a struggle. He stooped, drinking in her eyes. The white lids fell like shutters. Her lips pouted.

"Noses do get in the way." Her bubbling laugh recalled him. "Feel better now, don't you?"

"Clive, dear, I'm engaged," said Santa.

He felt exultant.

"I saw at once what was the matter with you," she continued. "You've not kissed a girl for ages. Now let's be sensible. Why do you think I sent for you?"

"Because you've been hungry for me the way I've been hungry for you."

She shook her head, not exactly in denial.

"I always miss you, Clive. But that wasn't why. It was because I've done something. I was afraid you might hear it second-hand. Clive, dear, I'm engaged."

They sat so silent that they could almost hear the tinkle of the sunshine.

"You're disappointed in me."

"Don't be absurd." There was rough tenderness in his voice. "I'm thinking what's best to be done. Is this engagement official? What I mean is have your parents consented?"

"Mummy has. In a way she made it. Daddy's been told, if that's what you call consenting."

"Who is the poor sucker?"

She shrugged her delicate shoulders.

"Sucker's not complimentary. He's my late partner at tennis."

"Good grief, Santa! What kind of a mother have you?"

"What's the matter with Mummy?" she asked on the defensive.

"Nearly everything," he blurted. "Put yourself in her place and suppose you had a daughter. Wouldn't you rather see her single forever than the wife of a man nearly old enough to be her father?"

"Don't exaggerate, Clive. He's only fourteen years older than I am."

"Only! Then he's only six years younger than your mother. She must be crazy."

"You've got it wrong, Clive. I'm following my instinct—doing what I consider wise."

"Consider again," he snapped. "Let me ask the question. Do you love him?"

"No girl's so dumb as to marry for love nowadays."

"Then for what?"

"Companionship."

He withdrew his arm.

AGGREGRAPHS.

Uncle Ab says it never pays to have your clothes put you at a disadvantage—either for work or for social occasions.

Each student in the winter short course in poultry at the New York State College of Agriculture is assigned the entire care of a small flock for four weeks of his course.

Maintain as much moisture as possible in the potato storage, without having water condense on the top of the pile or on the walls or ceiling of the storage place.

When pullets are first put in the laying house they should have grain available at all times for the first few weeks; then feed 100 pullets about a quart of grain in the morning and all they will eat clean in the middle of the afternoon.

Farmers who have the knack for fixing things, and many who have never repaired farm equipment at home, because they lacked the tools, will appreciate the free Cornell bulletin about the farm tool shop and equipment. Ask the office of publication at the College of Agriculture at Ithaca, N. Y., for E-108.

A New York state single-comb white leghorn pullet, owned by A. J. Donovan, Jr., of Katonah, Westchester county, was high in the central New York egg laying contest with 299 eggs scoring 310 points in 51 weeks. A barred Plymouth rock pullet from the Dryden breeding farm of Modesto, California, laid 304 eggs that were slightly smaller and scored fewer points.

STRANGE AS IT SEEMS—REG. U. S. PAT. OFF.

by John Hix

Trees from a diseased forest used in the outer log work of one of Yellowstone National Park's strange buildings, give the veranda and other parts of the store their grotesque appearance. The large swellings on the logs are the results of a peculiar blight or disease prevalent in the area from which the wood was cut.

The "knotted forest," located near Lake Yellowstone, has hundreds of trees that are gnarled and swollen in places by the blight. Another feature of the store shown today is that hot water used in its heating system is piped from nearby geysers.

When Jem Smith successfully defended his English title in a bout with Frank Slavin in Belgium in 1889 under the old rules of pugilism, his title became perpetual—for his was the last bare-fisted title bout under the English crown. With the introduction of gloved boxing, there were no more seekers after his honor. The old order of boxing is extinct and illegal, and Smith its last champion.

Although he fought other matches after his bout with Slavin, his championship was not at stake, for already public sentiment had forced the adoption of the Marquis of Queensberry rules of 1886, and bare-fisted fighting was doomed.

Voice Quality

"Young children particularly respond almost instantly to sweet, quiet, low tones. Unfortunately, most persons when irritated allow their tones to become shrill, high and fault-finding. If a child never heard this kind of a voice, he would never develop one, providing, of course, he was not influenced by physical defects," Mrs. Aline Morley Ballard comments in Hygeia Magazine.

Old College Executive

In 1638 the regular course of academic studies at Harvard began, degrees being conferred four years after. Nathaniel Eaton, with the title of master or professor, was the first in charge. He was appointed in 1637, but two years later was dismissed from the institution and was followed by Rev. Henry Dunster, the first college executive in the United States to bear the title of President.

Investigating Adolescence

An anonymous giver has placed $31,000 in the hands of the University of California to be used in studying boys and girls during their busy periods, when they metamorphose into adults. Meanwhile, old age remains old age. In no research institution are the problems of senility being given consideration. Neither science nor philanthropy is giving old folks a square deal.

Down at the heel shoes are likely to give that dragged down feeling because they throw the feet into an unnatural position that puts a tiring strain on leg and back muscles.

Wool stockings should be washed in luke-warm, but not in hot suds and rinsed well in water of the same temperature, and they should never be ironed. The best way to dry them is over smooth stocking forms of polished hardwood.

Pick the largest and best green tomatoes if frost has not yet touched them, wrap them individually in pieces of newspaper and place them on a shelf in a cool place to ripen gradually in October and November. The smaller ones may well go into green-tomato pickles or green-tomato mince meat.

Fire Lighters

A cinder soaked in paraffin makes a splendid fire lighter. Soak it overnight, then place in grate and build paper and small coal above it in a pyramid. No wood will be necessary. Coal dust sprinkled in newspaper and twisted in lengths of about 12 inches also obviates the use of wood when kindling first.

Lights of NEW YORK

By WALTER TRUMBULL

Some friends of mine, who are interested in a musical show, invited me to the drum rehearsal. I would not have missed it for worlds. Anyone who never has witnessed a drum rehearsal of a musical show, like the man who never had suffered from delirium tremens, "ain't seen nothin'." To watch the director alone is worth many times the price of admission. When someone inadvertently let down the drop for the next scene on the heads of the chorus doing a dance number, none of the cast was killed, but it seemed that the director was going to die of hydrophobia. When, in the midst of a duet, the stage hand parted the velvet curtains and stuck his head through, the director suffered from a form of throat paralysis. He could make only weird sounds, while his cheeks appeared to inflate after the manner of a rut balloon. His countenance was still so fiery that it shone in the dark when the electrician missed his cue and gave the performers a black-out instead of the expected moonlight. His language was even more flaming than his face. And what saved him from apoplexy when the curtain stuck, I still cannot imagine. No director of a musical show would seem to be a good insurance risk. It didn't even seem to have a soothing effect when the tranquilizer failed to work and the horse galloped off stage into the wings.

The drum rehearsal of a musical show generally lasts from around 8 p. m. until 5 o'clock in the morning. Then the performers, authors, stage crew, musicians and directors make for home and bed, and sleep the sleep of exhaustion until about 5 o'clock in the afternoon, when they wake up, fresh and nervous. On the opening night, everything usually goes like clockwork, the show is over a little after 11, and those concerned rush out to get the morning paper to see what the critics have to say concerning what has taken weeks of effort and large amounts of money. As a gambler, producing a musical show makes roulette look like a pikp's game.

One of the dentists of a New York pet store is a great advertisement for the business. It is a chimpanzee, and every afternoon the owners of the shop take it out for a walk on Fifth avenue.

I get most of my hotel news from Frank Case, Ted Sinclair, and Royal Ryan, and there always is something happening in the small cities which are metropolitan hotels. Mr. Ryan, for example, has been telling me of the O'Neils, of Pittsburgh. It seems that Mrs. O'Neil hid a valuable diamond ring in the pillow-case of her bed in a New York hotel, and in the next morning's hurry to get away early for Atlantic City, forgot it. When she remembered it, there was considerable ruction and her husband telephoned back to the hotel. Naturally, the room had been cleaned and remade, and looking through the laundry bag of a big city hostelry is quite a job. Maids, bellboys, and even extra elevator operators were put to work—twenty-two of them. Carefully, they searched and they shook, but it was not until they literally had examined thousands of pieces of linen that a bellboy inverted a pillow-case and out rolled the ring. I suppose things of that sort happen almost daily at all hotels.

Why Broadway producers spend a fortune making a show beautiful to the eye and ear and then, suddenly and without necessity, drag in something which offends the hysterics, I never have been able to figure out. They must figure that their public wants it, which is a sure tip-off on what they think of their customers.

Whole Family at Golden Wedding Anniversary

Albany, Ore.—Death never has interrupted the happiness of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas J. Anderson or their five children since the couple was married 50 years ago. The Andersons recently celebrated their golden wedding anniversary, with three children, six grandchildren and 17 other relatives participating.

One-Time Junkyard New Model Village

Portage, Wis.—A junkyard formed the nucleus for an attractive little roadside village near here which has not felt the effects of the depression.

The village is Packardville, built during the past five years by Lance Packard, thirty-three, who started with only a few dollars. The village now is free of debt and has public playgrounds, five ball parks, recreation grounds, bandstand, pavilion and tourist park.

Failing at farming before he was thirty, Packard started selling spoons and grinders and saved enough money to buy two old cars. He junked them and made $80 and continued buying and junking more cars.

Then he borrowed money and purchased the 40 acres on which the village now stands. Packardville now has ten cabins, two filling stations, a grocery store, garage, electric light and storage plant, and dwellings.

Dolphin a Whale

The name dolphin is sometimes wrongly applied to a fish, but the true dolphin is in reality a small whale and is sometimes called the porpoise. It attains a length of about six feet and, unlike the whale of larger size, has teeth in its slender, prolonged beak.

Beck's Market 10 Years of Age

Ten years of service to the people of Kingston marks the birthday celebration of Beck's Broadway Market of 536 Broadway. For a decade, Harry Beck, the market's owner, has conducted and managed this establishment, and in that ten years many improvements have been made. "At the present time, this market is as up to date in its equipment as any market in the city," said Mr. Beck. "In fact, I believe it to be the most modernly equipped market in Kingston."

Among the new improvements that have been made at Beck's market are a modern refrigeration system that keeps meats and sea foods in perfect condition at all times, and the store has been redecorated recently.

"In conjunction with our Tenth Anniversary Sale now in progress," said Mr. Beck, "our market will be used by the Forst Packing Company on Saturday, October 22, for a demonstration of Forst's Products. Our market was selected by the Forst Company for this demonstration, which will be both educational and entertaining. Everybody is invited to attend this demonstration."

"We have long prided ourselves on the sanitary conditions prevailing in our market at all times," concluded Mr. Beck. "Our market demands cleanliness, and our many customers know this to be true. It is our policy to sell only the highest quality meats and sea foods, and to render the public the finest service possible."

On another page of The Freeman may be found an advertisement regarding Beck's Anniversary Sale, and in this advertisement are listed many of the specials being offered at the store during its birthday celebration.

BUSINESS GIRLS HEAR VALUABLE BOOK REVIEW

There was a fine attendance at the Business Girls' Club supper at the Y. W. C. A. on Wednesday evening and an excellent supper which had been planned by Mrs. Terwilliger was served by ladies from the First Reformed Church. Miss Phillips especially welcomed the new girls and then made several announcements.

No More Piles

How to End Terrible Agony Without Salves or Cutting

Thousands of Pile sufferers do not know that the cause of Piles is internal—bad circulation of blood in the lower bowel.

That is the scientific truth about Piles—the real reason why salves and suppositories do not give permanent relief, why cutting does not remove the cause.

Your itching, bleeding or protruding Piles will only go when you actually remove the cause—and not one minute before. External treatments can't do this—an internal medicine should be used. HEM-ROID, the prescription of Dr. J. S. Leonhardt, succeeds because it stimulates the circulation, drives out congested blood, tones and restores the almost dead parts.

HEM-ROID tablets have an almost unbelievable record of success. So why waste time on external remedies or worry about an operation when McBride Drug Stores and druggists everywhere invite every sufferer to try HEM-ROID with guarantee of money-back if it does not end their Piles, no matter how stubborn the case?

come of them for the evening, others for a later time. The membership rally to take place next Monday night was spoken of enthusiastically. Mrs. Howard A. Lewis will have charge of the program which will include "The Friendship Express," running in two sections: "All Alone," and "All Together." Every business girl has been asked to attend the rally. Next week the business girls will hold a Hallowe'en Party when the girls are to have the fun of coming in costume—or "dressing up" after they get to the Y. W.—particularly in the costumes of the "Gay Nineties," if they can. On November 2 Mrs. Quackenbush will tell the girls about "Life in the Philippines". Following the supper which was interspersed with peppy singing, Miss Van Slyke gave a very valuable and appreciated review of Gilkey's book, "Managing Oneself."

PAIN
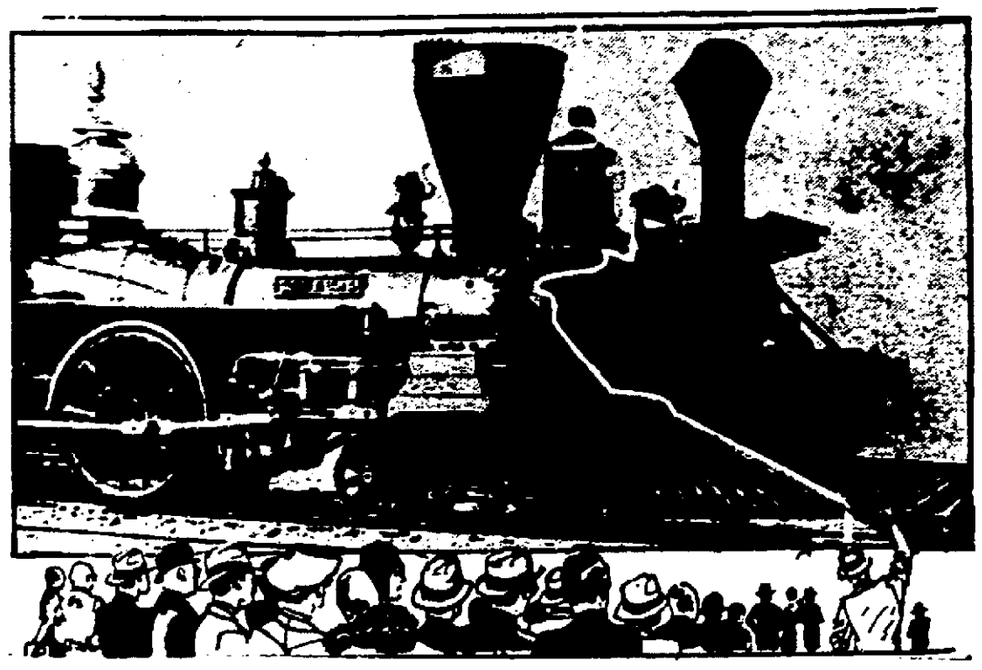
CHEST COLDS
LOOSENED
WITHOUT DRUGS

Get quick relief from neuralgia pain, sciatica pain, neuritis pain, rheumatic pain, lame back, stiff neck, headache, strains and chest colds by rubbing plenty of Baume Bengue (pronounced Ben-Gay) on the spot. It doesn't blister or stain. Rub it in till it sinks down and soothes the pain or breaks up the chest cold. Take no drugs, for any drug that is powerful enough to "deaden" pain or loosen a chest cold may not be good for you.

But beware of imitations. Ask your druggist for Baume Bengue by name (called "Ben-Gay" in English). There are many analgesic baumes, mostly cheap imitations of Ben-Gay made out of synthetic drugs. That is why they are cheap. That is also why they are ineffective. Insist on Ben-Gay and you will get real results.

Steam Up! Clear Off The Tracks! Civil War Engines To Race Anew



Seventy years have elapsed since the locomotive "Texas" (in background) outran the "General" (foreground), and thus prolonged the life of the confederacy. Now the mayor of Chattanooga, Tenn., where the "General" is stationed, has challenged the mayor of Atlanta, Ga., home of the "Texas," for another race, and the relics of the Civil War will stage a return engagement if plans are carried out.

Alexandria's Bathing Beach Is Very Modern

THIS doesn't look like a scene in Egypt, but it is the highly modernized Stanley bay bathing beach at Alexandria. The gay pajamas and brightly colored beach parasols make it resemble an American seaside resort, and four-fifths of the people found there are American tourists. In the background is the three-tiered crescent of bath houses.

Tuberculous Great

Chopin, John Calvin, John Wesley, the Bronte sisters, Elizabeth Barrett Browning, Simon Bolivar and Andrew Jackson are a few who suffered from tuberculosis.

Zoo's Distinction

The Washington park zoo in Milwaukee, Wis., is said to be the only one in the world where polar bears have been successfully raised to maturity.

Prodigal's "Husks"

It is believed that the "husks" referred to in the parable of the prodigal son were the pods of the locust tree. Locust pods are still used for food in the Orient.

Young Wife—I must apologize for the cake I made, dear. I think I left something out.

Husband—Nothing you left out could make a cake taste like this. It must be something you put in.

For everything one is given he is denied something else. For instance, one can't have youth and discretion, too. . . . Think it over.

Mr. Shatterfox—What did you hear at the opera yesterday, dear?

Mrs. Shatterfox—All sorts of things. Dan Hooker is going bankrupt. Mrs. Amos Maynard has dyed her hair, and the Whittington's are having a divorce.

A local bald headed man who hasn't much hair, said: "Don't attempt to poke fun at me. You have no doubt observed that this nation's symbol is the bald eagle."

She—Who was the girl you just spoke to.

He—Never mind, darling, I'll have enough trouble telling her who you are.

First Flea—Where will you send little Hoppy when he grows up?

Second Flea—Oh, I suppose he'll go to the dogs like his father.

The following is a reply received by Guilford College, North Carolina, in answer to an advertisement they inserted in the paper:

Gentlemen:

"In reply to your advertisement for an organist and music teacher, either lady or gentleman; having been both for several years, I offer my services."

"Men will wear brown this winter," says a style expert. They will if they did last winter.

Office Visitor—I desire no remuneration for this poem, I merely submit it as a compliment.

Editor (with true journalistic courtesy)—Then, my dear sir, allow me to return the compliment.

Edith—Joe is going to the dogs, isn't he?

Harold—Well, at least he's meeting them more than halfway.

English Professor—Tell me one or two things about John Milton.

Student—Well, he got married and he wrote "Paradise Lost." Then his wife died and he wrote "Paradise Regained."

The man who has a fairly good job and starts in for himself, usually finds he had better have stuck to the job. True, many men have lost their jobs. But also, many men have lost their business.

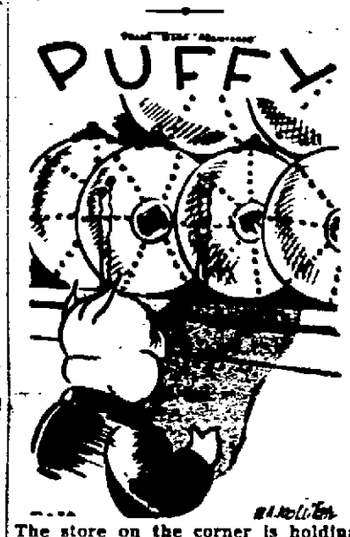
PERNICKITY FEEDERS ARE MR. EVERY'S TURKEYS.

West Shokan, Oct. 20.—Visitors are assured of a cordial welcome at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Martin J. Every's turkey farm at Traver Hollow, which is located only a half mile from the boulevard. Here may be seen a flock of 125 or more turkeys content in their large open pen. They are especially fond of apples and Mr. Every is kept busy nearly all the time chopping up apples, as the turkeys will not eat them whole or ground up. They are rather peculiar when feeding, for they will not eat cracked corn, but push it aside and eat the other grain. The turkeys are all quite large now, and within another month they will be in shape to adorn the tables of feasting.



The store on the corner is holding great sales—
It's selling out fish traps and harpoons for whales.
But there on the counter's the special my dears:
A whole even dozen of new bathyspheres!

Kingston: "The Crash." Romance and the depression, with Ruth Chatterton and George Brent. It is a story of high finance, the stock market, and the market crash that everyone well remembers. CLIPPER SHIPS TO SAIL SEAS AGAIN

Two Taken From "Graveyard" and Refitted.

Oakland, Calif.—Decks agleam and sails newly patched, two square rigged ships of the Alaska Packers fleet, for years "buried" here in the mudflat "graveyard" of the Pacific are ready to sail once again through the Golden Gate and follow the paths along which they once blazed a glorious chapter in American history.

They were the Star of Alaska and the Star of England. Soon they plan to sail through the maze of their sister ships' masts, huddled together as if to break the loneliness, and out into the Pacific.

The Star of Alaska and the Star of England are being refitted for a new life—strange ones, no doubt—at sea. The Star of Alaska has been sold to a group of students from Spruce Pine, N. C., who plan to conduct a "floating university" on a round-the-world cruise. They plan to sail from San Francisco bay with the South seas and Australia as their first stops.

The Star of England's new owner, Edward Elson Grieve of Los Angeles, will take the square rigger to the South seas to "get away from the ticker tape and forget the depression."

With Grieve will be a party of writers and scientists.

A year ago one of the two old Star clippers, the Star of Alaska, its white canvas billowing, cleared the Golden Gate and took part in the Alaska salmon season. It returned to its resting place here after a successful trip.

Aged mariners recall the days when the entire fleet of 25 clippers made the annual run.

Then it was that skippers bet the customary $1,000 and the crew its last nickel on the outcome of the race to Puget sound. Two years ago the Star of England and the Star of Alaska staged their last race. Last year the Star of Alaska sailed alone.

For the first time, steam vessels were used exclusively this year by the packers, the sailing ships definitely abandoned.

Of the original 23 in the fleet, only nine remain. The others have been sold.

Preparing Parchment

The materials on which the monks wrote their books were chiefly calf's skin or parchment. The latter was first washed, placed in a lime solution to stay for three days, rewashed, stretched on a frame, scraped and pared down to eliminate inequalities. But the task was not completed until the parchment was dusted with sifted chalk and rubbed with pumice.

During the latter part of September, Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Schryver of Port Ewen, accompanied by ... Harvey and Hester Schryver of New York city, toured ... New England and Cape Cod, visiting relatives of the Gurney family in New Haven and New London, Conn. and Providence, R. I., while ... in Provincetown, Mass.

Mrs. Schryver, whose maiden name was Gurney, is a direct descendant of the Gurney family that first settled in Wareham, Mass. in the early part of the seventeenth century and while in New England visited the old Gurney homestead there.

This old homestead, after 200 years is yet used and remains in excellent condition. The walls are as sound as when built, while the original copper inscriptions set into the building are plainly decipherable from the opposite side of the street.

The Western Route was followed along Cape Cod from Bourne to Woods Hole, to Chatham and Orleans, thence to Provincetown; while the return trip was made along the Eastern Route, U. S. 6, stopping to enjoy an excellent shore dinner at the Black Duck Inn at West Barnstable, continuing through Plymouth and Kingston, to Boston, then to Waltham, and on through New Hampshire and Vermont, down to Great Barrington, Mass., to Hudson, N. Y. and to Kingston—a total of 1,62[illegible] miles.

People along the route agreed that business conditions were considered to be gradually becoming better for all parties concerned, and also volunteered the added information that Connecticut, Rhode Island, New Hampshire and Vermont would be found in the Hoover column after election returns of November 8 were counted, while Massachusetts and Maine would in all probability go for Roosevelt.

The conditions surrounding the farms and farm produce were much better than in New York state. Fair prices were asked and received for their produce. While rain was not up to the usual summer standard, the majority of brooks, wells and cisterns still retained a fair supply of water for emergency purposes.

Clear weather, coupled with warm days and nights, combined to make the trip a very enjoyable one through wonderful scenery during the entire trip.

Three days later they started on a tour via the Adirondack mountain route to Niagara Falls and down into the Pennsylvania coal mine regions.

Following the route from Kingston to Albany, Saratoga, Glens Falls and Lake George, the trip along the shores of Lake George to Hague—22 miles—was one of the most wonderful natural scenery—at a time when Nature begins to imprint her most wonderful colors upon the leaves of the maple trees that dot the hills and mountains in all directions—a scene that is unrivalled.

Leaving Hague, enroute westward through the Adirondacks was just another repetition of wonderful scenery with the road winding along the shores of many large blue lakes. At one place a small bear cub was securely fastened to two stakes near a large hotel that was probably open the entire year. At another open spot a deer leisurely crossed the road about 150 yards ahead; while efforts were made to secure a snapshot before it disappeared in the woods. Shortly after that a stop was made at the Lighthouse Cabins at Otter Lake for the night, as the air was growing colder and darkness was blotting out the wonderful natural scenery and lakes.

The Lighthouse Cabins are large and clean, with running water, and a large stove. They are very comfortable without heat during June, July and part of August—the usual summer period—but from about August 15th a fire is necessary and often has to be kept burning all night.

A brick fire soon made the cabin very warm and comfortable, but sometime around midnight the fire went out. The temperature dropped so fast and the cabins cooled so rapidly that the five blankets on each bed did not furnish enough warmth to allow any sleep. The cold was intense and very penetrating. There was nothing else to do but to get up and make a new fire and then when it died down, to replenish it every two or three hours until ready to leave the cabin.

After leaving the cabin that morning, everything for miles around was found covered with a heavy frost which whitened the ground like snow, while the heavy fog that hung over the low lands and surfaces of the lakes made a very weird appearance until near 10 a. m. when the sun was able to penetrate and evaporate it sufficiently to allow some welcome heat into that section.

Various routes were followed in order to get on Route 3 at Mexico, and follow it through Oswego to Webster, where a detour was made along the shore of Lake Ontario to Sea Breeze, then along the outskirts of Rochester to Route 31, and on to Niagara Falls, where a stop was again made for the night.

The trip to Goat Island and the American and Canadian Falls was greatly enjoyed at night and again in the early hours of the following morning when the entire place was almost completely deserted.

Farm produce in New York state was for sale at prices that brought the farmer no return for his labor. Muskmelons were marked to sell at 50 cents a bushel, with from 25 to 32 melons heaped high above the edges of each basket. Pears could be had from 15 to 25 cents for a 16 quart container. Tomatoes ranged from 10 to 25 cents for the same amount. Pumpkins, squashes and corn were sold for whatever the buyers were willing to offer.

Leaving Niagara Falls and passing through Lockport and Akron, where Route 5 was followed until near Batavia, where some time was lost while a wrecking car removed a cow that had been killed by a roadster, to one side of the road; and then by means of about 30 feet of chain pulled the damaged roadster up the embankment on to the road. Four broken concrete posts gave mute evidence that they were unable to withstand the power of the roadster after the cow had been struck and killed.

The severe drouth in the upper part of New York and Pennsylvania caused much suffering and hard work for the farmers to provide water for their stock. Conditions were far worse than in New England States. Not an ounce of water showed in many streams that were from 50 to 100 feet wide, and from 5 to 10 feet deep when filled, and the farmers were forced to carry water for long distances to protect their live stock.

Making a detour of 26 miles through Honeoye Falls to avoid construction near Avon, Route 5 and 20 was again followed through Canandaigua to Geneva, turning south into the road along beautiful Seneca Lake for nearly 50 miles to Watkins Glen, through Elmira to Waverly, where the Pennsylvania border line was crossed en route through Sayre, Towanda to New Albany, where a stop was made at The Maples for the night.

Heavy rainfall that evening, with much wind, brought a rather disagreeable morning as the heavy fog covered all lowlands for miles, while a drizzling mist encountered upon the higher altitude, did not lessen the danger of skidding or accident.

These conditions continued all day through the breakers and coal mine region from Laporte to near Williamsport, through Jersey Shore to Lock Haven and Bellefonte, and to Pleasant Gap, where a stop was made for the night.

The promise of the weather man for clear weather and sunshine was fulfilled shortly after leaving the following morning en route to Lewistown and through Middleburg to Sunbury, where the railroad conditions were so slack that the Pennsylvania Railroad had stored about 200 idle freight and passenger locomotives on the tracks there—under protection from the elements and ready to move at short notice.

Leaving Sunbury, en route through Shamokin, Mt. Carmel, Pottsville, Tamaqua and Mauch Chunk, that part of the trip was through some of the wildest and most weird coal country in the State of Pennsylvania. In many places huge slag heaps rose 300 or more feet in the air—some yet in use—while others reared their silent forms as proof that the mines have petered out, and the owners have moved all equipment to some new location in another section of that country, leaving behind the impression of how strange and mystifying nature works to allow trees, bushes and weeds to take root and flourish in those forsaken slag heaps.

Mine prices for coal were $4 a ton for Stove; $3.50 for Chestnut; $3 for Pea and $2.50 for Buckwheat. A considerable difference in price from what one pays for coal delivered in the East, yet when one realizes that the railroads are allowed to charge around $3 a ton for delivery to eastern ports or dealers, there still remains a profit of $[illegible] to be divided among the commission men and other dealers. These signs showing mine prices were displayed quite prominently while autos and wagons did a good business from house to house.

The people gave evidence by increased orders for groceries, vegetables and other articles that production of coal was being increased in those regions. Heavy shipments of coal could be seen being hauled from the breakers and mines along the C. R. R. of N. J., Lehigh Valley and Pennsylvania Railroads. There was greater activity noticeable to relieve the strange unusually quiet gloom that prevailed over this section in May of this year.

Warned that a large section of the mountain had fallen and blocked the road outside of Mauch Chunk, fortunately proved to have occurred on another road, and did not interfere with traffic on Route 209 being followed until a stop was made at the Charles Inn, Saylorsburg, Pa., where a very delicious and appetizing chicken and waffle dinner was greatly enjoyed.

Continuing on Route 209 through Stroudsburg to Milford and Port Jervis, Route 6-N was followed into Kingston, arriving in Port Ewen at 5:30 p. m., a total of 1,692 miles or a total of 3,315 miles for the two tours.

Taking into consideration that continual fair weather and sunshine prevailed throughout the two tours with the exception of one rainy day one can realize that the weather could not have been more perfect had it been ordered that way.

From information along the route New York State will go for Hoover with Pennsylvania leaning toward Roosevelt. Many predict a very close election with Hoover the winner.

Some of the most wonderful natural scenic conditions in the United States lies within the regions visited. Wild, untamed, majestic in its grandeur and size it compares very favorably with other places in Canada and the Western States with any natural scenery in foreign countries.

Both tours were remarkable from absence of blow-outs or accidents over the various types of road construction, and when one takes into consideration that both Mr. and Mrs. Schryver are nearly [illegible] years of age, and if spared to live until December 22, 1932, will celebrate their golden wedding anniversary, proves that the older generation still retain much of the wonderful vitality and strength that enabled them to overcome the privations and disappointments they encountered in their younger days.

Five Women Once "First Ladies" Are Still Living

Washington.—While the strain of being President is apt to wreck the health of any man, no matter how robust, the task of serving as "First Lady," it would seem, is an assurance of long life.

There are now living five women who once presided over the Executive Mansion. Calvin Coolidge is the only living ex-President.

Mrs. Frances Folsom Cleveland Preston heads the list of "First Ladies" in seniority, but not in age. She was very young when she married President Cleveland in a White House ceremony.

Other living wives of ex-Presidents are Mrs. William Howard Taft, Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, Mrs. Calvin Coolidge and Mrs. Roosevelt who celebrated her seventy-first birthday not long ago. Except for Mrs. William McKinley and Mrs. Warren G. Harding the line of living former mistresses of the White House goes back nearly half a century.

Fought Duel in Chair

Benjamin Constant, the famous Republican of the late Eighteenth and early Nineteenth century, and the intimate friend of Mme. de Stael, fought a duel seated in a chair. He had been crippled for the remainder of his life by a fall in the French chamber of deputies and was unable to stand. Nevertheless, he fought and won a duel seated.

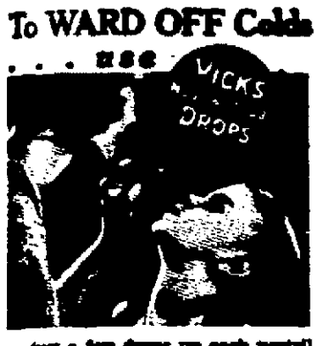
Find Way to Cut Costs of Colds More Than Half

Years of research by Vick Chemists resulted last year in development of a new and unique counter-irritant—Vicks Nose & Throat Drops. It is the ideal companion to Vicks VapoRub, the modern way of treating colds. Together with certain simple rules of health, these preparations form Vicks Plan for better Control of Colds.

Vicks Plan was thoroughly tested and proved last winter. In carefully supervised clinics in schools, colleges and homes, results showed that the Plan reduced the number, duration and severity of colds by half—and cut their costs even more. The acceptance of hundreds of thousands of enthusiastic users—all over the country—confirm these tests. The Plan is fully explained in each Vicks package.

To WARD OFF Colds

. . . use



. . . just a few drops up each nostril at that first feeling of stuffiness or nasal irritation. Aids Nature's defense in preventing colds.

To GET RID of a Cold

. . . use

Its direct double action means quicker relief. The family standby in treating colds—"over 26 million jars used yearly."

Urges Favorable Vote On $30,000,000 Relief Measure At Election

Editor,
Kingston Daily Freeman,
Kingston, N. Y.
Dear Sir:

On November 8 the voters of the State of New York will be called upon to vote on one of the most important humanitarian issues ever placed before them, the thirty million dollar unemployment relief bond issue, proposed to provide funds to extend State Aid to municipalities to care for those who, because of economic conditions, are unable to provide for themselves.

This proposition, which is proposition No. 1, in my judgment, should receive the fullest support from the voters. If it fails of adoption, every city and village will be faced with the most impossible task of caring for the needy without assistance from the State. Unemployment problems are now very acute and will decidedly become more so during the coming winter, but no matter what the cost, we cannot permit our people to suffer. Many cities have already reached their legal borrowing limit and cannot obtain more funds anywhere. They cannot tax real estate further, for that is already taxed to the limit, and they have no other source of revenue. Where they will obtain the money, if not from the State, is hard to see.

As Mayor of our City, I am worrying about the financial and relief problems that will present themselves to us this coming winter, and it will be impossible for us to ourselves shoulder the entire burden. Our only salvation is to see that the bond issue is approved and State funds made available.

I would ask that you publish this letter and urge the voters to vote favorably on proposition No. 1 on this coming election day.

Very truly yours,
EUGENE B. CAREY,
Mayor.

A Warm and Colorful Winter Seems Assured

New York — One might have thought that the humble little rabbit had been sufficiently glorified when he reached the dignity of being referred to as lapin, but not so. There is rabbit this, and rabbit that this season. Here is a frock made of rabbit wool which you surely must know is very soft and fluffy. Woolens are not only lovely in themselves, but they are made to sound even more so, rabbits, angoras and ostrich, all implying softness.

Until recently, those who thirsted for color, had to find it among the silks. Woolen fabrics were very drab. Not so now. In fact some of the new colors seem lovelier in wool than in silk. This is true of the rust and red shades and many others.

Lanvin has prescribed black and red for winter—bright red, of course. It is seen everywhere. Red topped black dresses with black coats—and Persian lamb just seems naturally to be chosen for the trimming details. Not only the trimming details, but really for a part of the body of the coat, or more likely for its sleeves. The season started with black dresses enlivened by red, but it now develops that red ones trimmed with black, or made almost on a half and half basis, are too smart for words. Metal touches are attractive trimmings for such frocks.

The model sketched has two arresting details at least. First please notice that the scarf is a part of the bodice itself, then note that it is edged with white crocheted lace. Ever so many good looking dresses have either knitted or crocheted details, and these are not confined to sports clothes either.

Milliners tell me that women come to them with pieces of their dress fabric and clamor for a hat made of it. There is nothing to do but comply. The woolen hat is as definitely established as the woolen dress, and the velvet hat just naturally tops the velvet dress.

THIS SCARF IS NEW

Copyright, 1932, by Fairchild.

A black rabbit's wool frock from Lyolene offers an effective variation of the usual scarf in the shape of a loose wide tab which is drawn up from a high waistline through a slit at one side of the neck where it turns over in a scarf end. The line is emphasized by a narrow edging of white crocheted lace which also appears on the long close-fitting sleeves

Coat Dresses Have Many Women Friends

The coat dress is strongly emphasized, especially for women's dresses, with the skirt wrapping widely at the side, and with pleats providing added movement at the opposite side. This wrapped effect is not confined to dresses for daytime wear, for a number of evening gowns are seen that describe a wrapped line at the side, often in conjunction with a deep flounce that mounts to the waistline at the side or front.

Hats With Scarf or Veil Alliance

Copyright, 1932, by Fairchild

The hat and scarf set at left is of a brown cloth. The brim has a clever roll, and is held at the right side by two chenille pompons mounted in metal. These appear on the scarf, to achieve a fastening.

The other model is of brown felt. On tricorne lines, it introduces detail to the cuff brim. A feather of burnt peacock to match, is curled over the brim at the side back.

SHANDAKEN.

Shandaken, Oct. 20.—The Home Bureau met at the home of Mrs. Theron Townsend Thursday October 13 at 10:30 a. m. and spent the day cutting and sewing children's garments under the supervision of Miss Evelyn Nance. These garments are for the children of the unemployed in the town and the material is furnished by the Red Cross. The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Joseph Garrity in Allaben and as these meetings are community affairs it is hoped that any one interested in helping in this worthy cause will come and sew.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Brown and Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Wood attended services at the First Reformed Church in Kingston on Sunday and later were guests of Mr. and Mrs. B. C. Churchill in Highland.

Miss Phyllis Osterhoudt, who is a student nurse at the Fifth Avenue Hospital in New York city, spent Sunday at her home here.

Mr. and Mrs. Ward Hummel and Burroughs Blakeslee enjoyed a trip to the Adirondacks over the week-end.

There will be a community sing in the M. E. Church hall Saturday evening, October 22, at 7:30 o'clock. The affair is the first of a series of community sings to be held the coming winter season under the auspices of the Home Bureau. Everybody is invited to come and have a jolly time. Refreshments will be served. Bernard Joy of Kingston will be the song leader.

Miss Elizabeth Frey and Mrs. Querinjean were in Kingston on Saturday.

Luther Decamp of Stony Point, N. Y. was a guest of Abram Wood over the week-end.

Mr. and Mrs. Van Dyk MacBride of Nutley, N. J. and Mr. and Mrs. S. W. Bowser of Tenafly, N. J. were at their summer home at the Rip Van Winkle Club last week.

Raymond Brown is visiting friends in Oneonta this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Yerry and son, Don, and Mr. and Mrs. Ted Cleveland were dinner guests of Miss Elizabeth Frey on Sunday.

F. S. Osterhoudt is having his house painted. George Ross and Carl Townsend are doing the work.

Miss B. K. Hunt, the primary school teacher, spent the week-end with her mother at her home in Arena, N. Y.

Otto Poehland and family have moved into the inn at the Rip Van Winkle Club for the winter.

DID YOU KNOW THAT—

Dinner and evening dresses that introduce beads as trimming occupy an important place in the mode, the beads sometimes applied in bands that border the high neckline at the front and continuing to the back.

An easily draped movement in lieu of a belt is a favorite waistline treatment, noted in daytime and evening dresses.

Some of the most attractive informal dinner gowns introduce beads delicately on outlining slashes in sleeves, or continuing from the shoulder line to the wrists of long-sleeved dinner types.

During hundreds of experiments conducted in the British empire cancer campaign it has been found that mustard gas has the effect of counteracting certain potent cancer-producing sustances. The discovery was made in experiments on rats.

Doctors advise...

A soft, pure wheat food, creamy-smooth and non-irritating to babies' tender digestive tracts, is recommended by child specialists for infant feeding.

Heckers' Cream Farina meets all of these requirements, and is prescribed by prominent physicians for infants and young children.

In the processing of this nutritious product, the coarse bran covering is removed, and the pure, clean inner portion of the wheat is carefully milled to form the basis for Heckers' Cream Farina.

The Atharharton Club began its fall and winter meetings on Wednesday afternoon, Mrs. Fischer being the hostess at the first meeting. The Atharharton Club's program this year will consider "The Study and Production of the one act play." This was followed by the reading of "The Second Shepherd's Play," which was followed by discussion. Next Wednesday the club will meet with Mrs. Dunbar.

Entertained At Tea

On Wednesday afternoon, Mrs. George Washburn entertained at tea at the beautiful Nurses' Home at the Ulster County Tuberculosis Hospital, which Mrs. Washburn gave to Ulster county in memory of her father, the late William H. Hutton. The charming colonial home for the nurses, so appropriately furnished in period furniture and appointments, had taken on the added attractiveness of personal belongings of the nurses, making it seem all the more homelike. The dull and cloudy weather lifted from the mountain tops, beautifully visible from all the windows of the home, and in the golden sunset the picture was most gorgeous with the vivid autumnal tints, the sumach offering great masses of flaming torches.

The tea table with its exquisite decorations of autumnal flowers and foliage was set in the reception room; which with other rooms were artistically decorated with autumn blooms. Mrs. Williams Carter, Mrs. Frank D. Dewey and Mrs. Frederick Warren presided over the tea table. The guests of the afternoon were Mrs. Washburn's immediate friends and the members of the Board of Managers and of the Ulster County Tuberculosis Committee, many of whom had not before had the pleasure of seeing the Nurses' Home since completed and furnished, and some of whom had not before visited the hospital. On every side was heard expressions of sincerest appreciation of Mrs. Washburn's most generous gift.

Action To Determine Legality Of Election Of R. F. Charlton

As Supervisor at the General Election Held On November 4, 1931—Inspectors Return Sheets and Registration Books Shown.

Mrs. Ellen Limbacker, an inspector of election in the town of Kingston in 1931, was the first witness called this morning in the action on trial in supreme court to determine whether Robert F. Charlton was legally elected to the office of supervisor at the general election held on November 4, 1931.

The inspector's return sheets were shown her and she identified them and testified that tally sheets were also made out. She identified the tally sheets and also stated that void and protested ballots were filed with the board of elections together with the tally sheets and inspectors' returns. No tally sheet was attached to the inspector's return.

Cross examined Mrs. Limbacker said two tally sheets had been kept. The tally sheet offered by Mr. Ewig she said had been kept by Mrs. VanSteenburgh, Democratic ballot clerk, and the other sheet which was offered by the defendant had been kept by Miss Fraser, Republican ballot clerk. She identified the papers which she had taken personally to the board of elections and filed them there. These papers she said had been taken directly from the polls to the board of elections and are now in the same condition as when she delivered them there.

At that point the examination of Mrs. Limbacker was suspended and J. Charles Snyder, commissioner of elections, and John B. Sterley, clerk of the board of elections, were examined and testified that the records on file in the office had been filed by Mrs. Limbacker and were in the same condition now as when filed. Mr. Sterley testified that he was called to the Sawkill poll on election night and after being there a time he came back to the board of elections office in Kingston and waited for Mrs. Limbacker to arrive with the returns.

The tally sheet filed with the board of elections was received in evidence.

Harry Sleight, election commissioner, was next called and produced the envelope containing void and protested ballots. Opening of the envelope was postponed until after oral testimony was in.

Mr. Sleight said that he told Mark Sampson that the election in Sawkill was close and he suggested keeping the papers in a safe place. They were locked up in a tin box in the office of the board of elections.

Registration Books Offered.

Registration books for the years 1928 to 1931 were offered by plaintiff. On the 1931 register was the name of Edward Campbell and after the name was noted "Challenged." The names of Helen and Charles Eckerson were also contained on the register. These names are among those disputed.

American Legion County Meeting

to civil life they were not lazy from long prison habit and looking for "graxy" jobs. The warden said so far four inmates had escaped out of the 120 they have there. When the prison is finished they will have 500 inmates. However, he said, they expected to lose a few more in the course of time. None of the guards had guns, and only the mounted ones had clubs. The prison buildings so far were just frame structures, and the windows and doors were not locked. What they were trying to do was to appeal to the honor of the men and make them believe that the prison authorities were trying to rehabilitate them for a normal life among their families and friends. He called on the Legion to support all youth movements, like the Boy Scouts, Y. M. C. A. and other youth movements, because the youth of today will be the prison inmates of tomorrow, and the prison population, now 12,000 in the state, would cease to grow when young men learned how to be good citizens. Dr. Palmer was loudly applauded for his masterly exposition of the aim of his institution in the treatment of criminals.

Colgate-N.Y.U. Game Has All Indications Of Thrilling Battle

New York, Oct. 20 (AP).—Two teams which have been keeping their gridiron feats pretty much to themselves during the hullabaloo over the early season big games, Colgate and New York University, offer what may be one of the most exciting and decisive games on this week's eastern football program.

Both rank among the east's undefeated teams. Neither has been scored on this season, but until last week they had been going up against comparatively weak opposition and little was known about their real strength.

After defeating Hobart 33-0 and Rutgers 21-0, both low scores compared to previous years, N. Y. U. came to life last week against its first major opponent and ran Georgetown ragged. On the same afternoon Colgate crushed a strong Lafayette team 35 to 0. A week before Lafayette had held Dartmouth to a 6-0 score.

In earlier games the Maroons ran up counts of 41-0 against St. Lawrence, 27-0 against Case, and 47-0 against Niagara.

Strong Defense

The figures alone indicate strong defenses on both sides. In addition, N. Y. U. has Bob McNamara, whose punting can set almost any opponent back on its heels and who is a fine runner as well, and a half dozen more good backs including the regulars, Joe Lamark, Harry Temple and John McDonald. Colgate relies upon chunky Charlie Soleau and a pair of speedsters, Whitey Ask and Rene Antolini.

The Colgate-N. Y. U. game is the only one this week which brings together two of the East's unbeaten leaders although many of the "big" teams encounter plenty of opposition.

Harvard-Dartmouth

Harvard, another candidate for sectional honors which has not been fully tested, encounters an old and tough rival in Dartmouth. While Ohio State and Michigan State furnish severe intersectional opposition for Pittsburgh and Fordham. Carnegie goes west to meet Notre Dame, hoping for an "upset" at the best and Boston College plays Marquette at Milwaukee.

Columbia, Pennsylvania and Brown take on minor opposition in Williams, Lehigh and Tufts, respectively.

Competing with these leaders for the attention of fandom are such traditional struggles as Yale and Army, in which the Cadets, rated right up with the leaders, figure to have an easy victory. Others are Princeton-Navy, Penn State-Syracuse and Wesleyan-Amherst.

PUNTS and PASSES

(By The Associated Press.)

Newton, Mass.—At least the Boston College players won't be stale from too much practice when they meet Marquette Saturday. They leave for Milwaukee today with only two full practice sessions behind them since the Centre game October 12.

Cambridge, Mass.—A little thing like rain can't stop Eddie Casey, Harvard's coach, when he plans to give his kickers some practice. It was too wet to practice outdoors yesterday but Casey discovered a set of portable goal posts and set them up in the baseball cage for an indoor drill on footwork.

Princeton, N. J.—By the time Charlie Ceppi gets through college he ought to be an experienced football player. When he first played for Princeton he was a fullback. He started this season as a reserve guard and yesterday he was sent in at left tackle, the fourth candidate for the job left when Art Lane was injured in the Columbia game.

West Point, N. Y.—Army's coaches can't quite understand why the Cadets are rated as strong favorites over Yale. The Elis have a strong defensive line, they say, and fewer points have been scored against Yale than against Army. They also point out that a week is not much time in which to recuperate from the Pitt game.

New York—Columbia, which always has a small football squad, is short one reserve guard. Ed King of Sharon Hill, Pa., who had that job, has left college.

Hamilton, N. Y.—The boys don't quite know whether it will be a homecoming day or not for the Colgate players when they go to New York Saturday to play N. Y. U. Fifteen members of the squad are from the metropolitan district but most of them hail from Long Island or New Jersey and not one lives in Manhattan or the Bronx.

State College, Pa.—Penn State hasn't scrimmaged this week in preparation for the Syracuse game and doesn't intend to. With six men on the hospital list any player who is able to get around is likely to find himself playing any position no matter whether it is his regular post or not.

Hanover, N. H.—It's just one hard blow after another for Dartmouth's hopes. The latest is that Al Baldwin, veteran tackle, will be out of the Harvard game. He suffered a recurrence of an old knee injury when playing against Penn and has an attack of boils besides.

Yellow Jackets Drill For Sing Sing Clash

Coach "Big Bill" O'Reilly put the Kingston Yellow Jackets through a good drill at the North Manor avenue practice field Wednesday night and supplemented the physical activities with a blackboard talk, mapping out several new plays to be used by the "Wasps" against the Sing Sing prison team Sunday.

All of the "Bees" seemed highly enthused and dug in at the practice to prepare themselves for what looms as their hardest game of the season. They will meet not only a bunch of hookies in the prison game but a team that is being tutored daily by Johnny Law, former Notre Dame star, who has been engaged to coach at the "Big House."

The skull practice in which Coach O'Reilly demonstrated new plays was more than of ordinary interest to the Yellow Jackets who eagerly took in all of the suggestions of the former Washington and Jefferson lineman, who hopes to see Manager Lou Kantrowitz's team come out victorious Sunday. Lou, himself, is most optimistic concerning the game and believes the Yellow Jackets will hand the prison team its first setback of the season. He has great faith in the ability of his men and in Coach O'Reilly.

Among those at last night's practice were Don Beany and "Alabama" Christmas, members of the West Point Artillery detachment, who made a special trip from the military reservation to attend. They will be in Kingston again tonight for instructions from Coach O'Reilly.

Tonight, the Yellow Jackets will hold their final drill in preparation for Sing Sing and every member of the squad is expected to be on hand at the North Manor avenue field for the session.

DUSO Council Ousts Middletown Gridders

Two Middletown football players were ousted from the DUSO League games Wednesday night at a meeting of the League Council at Newburgh. The protest entered by Kingston against "Cappy" Cappozella, the Middle center, was upheld by a 6 to 3 vote by the executive committee and the case of Mack Wagner being too old, which constituted the protest of Port Jervis, was unanimous.

This disqualifies both boys from entering into further competition in the DUSO League. In the question of Cappozella there was not complete agreement among the officials, however, the vote of 6 to 3 was sufficient to carry the conviction and no further dispute was held. Middletown accepted the decision.

Of course, where Wagner was involved, the protest was more solid. Port Jervis officials presented the birth certificate of the southpaw and the council agreed without any questioning. On Thanksgiving Day each year, Port Jervis and the Middies play and they play for all that football is worth and a victory for either team seems twice as great as one over another team.

In the case of Cappozella, Kingston said he had already played four years and this was his fifth but Middletown didn't believe this even though its own town newspaper held the same facts as the other papers in the valley. To prove this Coach G. Warren Kiss of Kingston had gathered several newspaper clippings and an affidavit was sworn concerning the information in the Kingston Daily Freeman. The defense was well formed and the council had only one way out and that was to oust Cappozella.

It was also found on further investigation that Mack Wagner had played four year of varsity. This formed two cases against him by which he could be expelled from the league. However, one proved sufficient and the other was just dwelt upon with great possibilities should the first protest fail.

The protests were both carried through successfully and Kingston will meet Middletown Saturday in the first DUSO League game, with the Middies keyed up. The Kingston-Middle games always did have plenty of fight, but this one will probably surpass the rest. Coach Hughes will use the best tactics he can employ to gain victory against Kingston.

This meeting Wednesday night was the third in which Middletown has been involved, and the first meeting in which much controversy was absent.

SPORT SLANTS

By Alan J. Gould

(Associated Press Sports Editor.)

The city limits of San Diego, California, begin away out in the Brown Hills. You can zoom along the concrete for miles before you strike habitation. The sporting interests of this thriving city cover an equally wide range. You can get an argument there on any athletic subject.

San Diego turns out athletes, like Bill Miller and Lee Ramage, as well as fans who do not hesitate to write or wire their views on current subjects. I recall distinctly a warm telegram of protest that "Four San Diegans," no relation to the well known quartet of Hawaiians, sent me during the Olympic Games.

They did not like the intimation that American athletes remained out of the opening Olympic ceremonies, to save wear and tear on their feet, while our foreign rivals took up the march as a matter of patriotic obligation. If the visitors were willing to risk their dogs in a parade, the four San Diegans argued, there was no reason why the Americans could not be sportsmen enough to do the same thing.

A $300 Memory.

As a mater of fact, one of our leading American athletes probably paraded himself right out of a championship, not only by marching but also by carrying the national colors for upwards of two hours in the Olympic Stadium. This athlete was Morgan Taylor, the world record-holder in the 400 meter hurdles.

Now comes a letter from Jerry Burns of San Diego, who signs himself an ex-ball player and fan and makes the mistake of giving us an argument on the 1925 world series between Washington and Pittsburgh. He writes:

"You made the following statement in the San Diego paper: 'No team ever has lost a seven-game world series after winning the first two games.' How about the 1925 series? Washington not only won the first two games, but the first three games and then lost the next four to Pittsburgh. My memory of that series is very vivid for the simple fact that I lost $500."

Hasn't Been Done.

But not quite vivid enough. Walter Johnson pitched Washington to victory in the first game, but Vic Aldridge hurled the Pirates to triumph in the second. The Senators then won the next two games in Washington and appeared to have the world championship all wrapped up. The Pirates rallied, however, and took the next three in a row for one of the greatest come-backs in baseball history. The final game was a thriller, decided by Kiki Cuyler's two-base blow off Walter Johnson with the bases full.

We repeat, therefore, that no team ever has lost the world series after taking the first two games, when seven games were the limit.

Due North

Minnesota claims the honor of having the most northern spot of the United States. Excluding Alaska, the northern part of Lake of the Woods county in that state is farther north than any place in any other state.

Two fine backs, Harry Newman, who is making a spectacular "comeback," and John Regget, brilliant sophomore fullback, have played prominent parts in Michigan's early drive toward the Big Ten crown. Newman, after being tabbed a "second Benny Friedman" in 1930, fizzled badly last season, only to come back this year better than ever. He licked Ohio State almost single-handed.

Sentiment to Keep Stagg Grows Stronger

Chicago, Oct. 20 (AP)—Sentiment is now, Amos Alonzo Stagg as head football coach at the University of Chicago, grew today.

Although Thomas Nelson Metcalf named as Stagg's successor as director of athletics effective next June 30 refused to discuss the coaching situation, several close friends of Stagg believed he would continue to direct Chicago's football fortunes.

One of them, James Weber Linn, professor of English at Chicago, said he was certain Stagg would be reappointed.

Stagg himself refused to discuss the possibilities of his retention, except to remark:

"It's a little early for them (meaning the freshmen who started a campaign to keep him as coach) to start worrying."

WESTBROOK STELLE CRITICIZES HI-Y CLUB

The Hi-Y Club of Kingston High School held its regular Wednesday meeting last night with attendance of 42.

The meeting was opened by the invocation which was given by William Gaffney. Next the dinner was enjoyed, the boys having generous helpings of dessert. The Girls Hi-Y Club did the serving.

After the supper Henry Eismier led in devotions by reading a portion of Mark 4 from the Bible.

The president, Francis Phillips, then asked the boys to sing the school song.

A short business session followed, the various committees giving their reports. The social committee reported that the Kerhonkson Hi-Y Club which the local Hi-Y Club helped to organize last year has invited them to attend their Hallowe'en dance.

The recreation committee with Wallace Buley as chairman reported that from the trade Wednesday afternoon a team would be picked to play a faculty team next week before the faculty banquet.

Van Dutton reported that the Girls Hi-Y Club was working hard on the place cards, invitations, etc., for the faculty banquet.

President Phillips then called for the Newburgh Hi-Y conference reports. The first half was given by Seymour Coutant. Harry Gumaer gave the last half of the report.

Those from Kingston who attended the conference were Mr. Fuller, Francis Phillips, Glenn Young, Kingston Pine, Donald Clark, Harry Gumaer, Wallace Buley, Dorothy Fuller, Jean Lorentz, Helen O'Meara, Jane Eiston, Anna Finkelstein and Phyllis Eastman.

The following council officers were elected for the coming year: Glenn Young of Kingston, president; Edna Milwand of Cornwall-on-Hudson, vice-president; William Watt, secretary; and Elizabeth Moeller of Spring Valley, treasurer.

The conference report having been read Westbrook Stelle of Staten Island addressed the Hi-Y Club. He started by stating that he was concerned enough to wish to be the "whole show" for the following five or ten minutes because it would only be in this way that he could obtain complete attention from the group.

His first criticism was that the Hi-Y Club in this city had gotten away from the real Christian standards which is contained in the purpose of Hi-Y. He continued with the point that Y. M. C. A. had become in New York city Y. M. A. A. which of course means Young Men's Athletic Association. He stressed the importance of keeping the Y. M. C. A. from becoming a "subscription gymnasium" or a "pool parlor." To quote him, "The Y. M. C. A. isn't a building; it is the young men in it." He compared character with the veneer of a table top which under testing conditions would curl up and leave an inferior surface exposed.

He concluded by saying although the club was undeveloped to date as to table manners, committee cooperation, and Christian character in general, there was hope if they would wake up and work as a unit.

His criticism worked upon the sensitiveness of several of the club's members but they realized that all was for their benefit.

After the Hi-Y meeting was adjourned a meeting of the Kappa Phi Theta chapter met and voted on ten new members to be admitted into the chapter in the near future.

Production Work By Local Red Cross

The President of the United States approved an act of congress passed last July authorizing the transfer of surplus bales of government-owned cotton to the American Red Cross for use in providing clothing and wearing apparel for the needy and distressed people of the United States and territories. This material is being distributed to the various chapters throughout the country. The Ulster county chapter has received its quota, consisting of outing flannel, gingham, muslin, etc., which is to be made into garments and distributed under the supervision of the Red Cross in cooperation with the various relief organizations of the city and county. The chapter has secured a work room over the post office on Fair street through the kindness of Charles Warren and work will be carried on there each day in the week beginning Monday, October 24. Mrs. Charles Tappen is chairman of the production committee and will appreciate the cooperation and assistance of any organizations or individuals who are willing to help in this work. Kindly bring thimble and scissors.

WEST SHOKAN CANS ROSES TO PROVIDE WINTER BLOOMS

West Shokan, Oct. 20.—Some of the young ladies of this section have tried their luck at preserving roses for winter use. There are always some buds on rose bushes just before the first killing frost. These buds are collected and placed in a fruit jar, in which there has been previously placed at least one inch of moistened sand. Each end of the stem should be stuck in the sand, so that the buds may receive the proper moisture. The can is then ready for sealing and may be placed in a dark corner in the cellar where the temperature is cool. Occasionally the jar should be opened to examine the buds and moisten the sand again. If any of the buds commence to decay, they should be removed. With proper treatment, rose buds may be kept for several months with very little attention.

Legal Dispute Over Who Is Supervisor

filed in the sum of $1,000 as required by law prior to January 1, 1933.

Defense attempted to question the witness in regard to tally books but the court held that such examination at that time was improper, not being cross-examination. Mr. Malone said the canvass had been made on the tally sheets.

At this point the defense rested, having established a prima-facie case on the certificate of election.

The case then was with the plaintiff and Mr. Ewig called Mr. Malone back to the stand.

Mr. Malone said that on November 24, 1931 Harry Hulsair had filed a bond with the attorney general. The original official canvass he said had been on November 5 and on that day the town board had met as a board of canvassers, had canvassed the vote and had found the inspectors returns correct and had therefore found Charlton elected by one vote and had issued a certificate of election. The count was 66 to 65.

Mr. Ewig then asked that the ballot box be produced and marked. He stated to the court that he would not ask to have the box opened until morning as the task of examining the ballots would be a long one and he did not desire to have the box remain open over night.

Judge Bliss asked Mr. Malone if the ballot box had been in his custody since election and whether it had remained sealed. The town clerk said it had been in his possession and had been opened but once, on court order, when an inspection was had in his presence at his office. This inspection had been had on November 21. After that inspection the box was again sealed.

An adjournment was taken until 10 o'clock today.

Large Republican Meeting In 4th Ward

An enthusiastic crowd of more than one hundred assembled at the Polish-American Hall on Delaware avenue Wednesday night when the organization of the Fourth Ward Republican Club was completed. The organization was effected largely through the efforts of members of the ward committee and residents of the district. Particularly gratifying was the presence of a large representation of women voters who appeared deeply interested in the splendid addresses delivered by N. LeVan Haver, County Attorney Robert G. Groves and Herbert Thomas. The speakers stressed the outstanding ability and fine records of the Republican candidates for the various offices. Of particular interest was a description by one of the speakers of the striking personality of Col. William J. Donovan, candidate for governor, and a brief recital of the deeds which won for him French and American decorations. Joseph Raskoskie was made temporary chairman of the club and the following officers were elected:

M. J. Powers, president; George J. Smith, vice president; William Hotaling, secretary. The next meeting will be held Wednesday evening, October 26, at 8 o'clock, at which time prominent speakers will be present to speak on the issues of the campaign. A cordial invitation is extended to all voters of the ward, men and women, who are interested in these issues, to be present.

Verdict of $2,500 Won by DuBois

Supreme Court Jury in Poughkeepsie Awards Kingston Youth Damages for Broken Back—Father Awarded $1,695.

The Poughkeepsie Eagle-News says:

Total verdict of $3,595 were returned by a supreme court jury Wednesday in favor of Simon V. DuBois, Jr., 21, of Kingston, and his father against the Blumenthal and Eisen Company of New York and Maynard Smith, also of New York. DuBois sued for damages for a broken back suffered on February 4, 1931, when the car in which he was riding struck a Blumenthal Company truck on the Albany Post road, south of Wappingers Falls. Five cars were involved in the crash.

Kenneth McAfee of Kingston appeared for the plaintiff and W. Harry Montgomery and L. Brandt Muckenhoupt for the defendant. Justice Witschief presided.

The jury awarded the youth $2,500 and the father $1,095. The father's verdict represented expenses in curing the boy and damages for loss of service.

DuBois suffered a broken back on February 4, 1930, in one of the most unusual accidents recorded on the highways of Dutchess county. According to information revealed in opening of counsel yesterday, a Grand Union company truck skidded on the highway south of Wappingers Falls in front of the House-By-The-Road inn. Soon after a Packard sedan owned by Bronilaus Frankowski of this city came north, struck the truck and careened into the side of the inn.

Later the Blumenthal Eisen car came north and struck the Grand Union truck. Later the car of Bertram Harris of this city came north and piled into the wreckage.

By that time state police had rushed to the scene and little later the car of Allen Waters of Kingston came north. DuBois was riding in the car as a passenger. This car careened into the wreckage, too, DuBois suffering injuries that kept him in Vassar hospital until April.

Dr. H. W. B. Stibbs testified the youth suffered compression fractures of the seventh, ninth and tenth vertebrae and that he will have to wear a brace the rest of his life to avoid pains in the back. The youth is not wearing a brace now.

Yellow Jacket Busses to Leave Legion Building

For the convenience of fans going to Sing Sing to see the Yellow Jackets play there Sunday, busses will leave the American Legion Memorial Building, West O'Reilly street, instead of starting from the D. Kantrowitz clothing store on North Front street.

Manager Lou Kantrowitz, who first arranged for the busses to leave from North Front street, made the change in the starting point for the convenience of fans as the Legion building is considered more accessible on account of its location, practically in the center of the city.

The busses will leave promptly at 9:15 o'clock.

Scheduled starting time of the game is 2 o'clock in the afternoon.

Yellow Jacket rooters contemplating making the trip to Sing Sing in private cars are advised by Gerald F. Curtin, athletic director at the prison as follows: Take the Albany Post road via Bear Mountain Bridge to Ossining, then ask anyone the road to the prison grounds.

There will be an admission charge to the game. This is collected by the prison authorities and is not included in the transportation price arranged by Manager Kantrowitz.

Sing Sing Eleven Loses Fullback Star

The Mutual Welfare League of Sing Sing Prison lost one of its best football players today when "Jumbo" Morano received his parole. Everyone at the "Big House" from Warden Lewis E. Lawes down to the newest member of the "freshmen class" at Sing Sing was proud of the 220 pound fullback who closed out his prison football career last Sunday by bouncing the members of the Port Jervis police team around for 50 minutes. He did not retire until late in the final period.

"Jumbo" waded in gleefully and played a game the Port Jervis cops will long remember. One of them was carried off on a shutter after the first scrimmage. Another cop almost as big as Morano had three ribs cracked.

Coach Johnny Law, of Notre Dame fame, intends to see that Morano gets a chance in the game of life, which he may play just as well as he plays football if he gets the proper coaching and the breaks.

With Morano off the team, Sing Sing stands less of a show against the Kingston Yellow Jackets next Sunday. However, all of the state's gridders are said to be in good shape for the contest with the "Wasps," who are eager to hand the boys from down the river their first defeat of the season. Sing Sing has won three games. So have the Yellow Jackets. They defeated the West Point Artillery, Albany Lucky Strikes and Woodlawn of Yonkers.
